County court building 'bugging' irks employes

Modification or removal of device sought

POMONA — County employes here are attempting through their union to have listening devices removed from the first-floor office of the County Clerk in the Pomona County Courts Building.

The device, which is monitored on the top floor by sheriff's deputies responsible for security inside the seven-story building, is intended only as a security aid, county officials said, and not as a device to overhear conversations of employes.

Nevertheless, the device has the capability of being used to overhear conversations in the clerk's office without those in the office knowing it, the union, Local 660, claimed.

The union has filed a legal memorandum with the County Clerk's office seeking removal or modification of the device on the theory that its use violates the State Penal Code.

Such devices are the result of the escape attempt three years ago in the Marin County Courthouse, where a judge was among those killed. But listening devices installed inside court rooms since then are equipped with green lights which go on when the device is in use. The one in the County Clerk's office here does not.

The sheriff's office has a similar device in the office of the Pomona Police Department watch commander nearby, which is intended to summon aid in case of trouble in the courthouse. But when that device is activated, a light in the police office indicates it is in use.

Some employes in the County Clerk's office here have complained that they fear their conversations are being "bugged," but sheriff's Sgt. Everett Hardy said, "We can hardly hear what they're saying when we have these things on." He said that in the past year the device alerted the security team to a fight in a courtroom during a murder trial of two brothers.

The union newspaper, County Employe, warned recently that "Big Brother May Be Listening" and said employes were "being bugged" by monitoring devices. It said the system was "giving employes the jitters" and smacked of Orwell's "1984." The article quoted a county management official as saying, "Employes should not be discussing anything of a personal nature on county time, anyway."

The employe union wants either modification of the device, using a light warning it is being used, or replacement with a new system which must be activated by office employes, not by the sheriff's department upstairs.

County mangement maintains that either would be too expensive.

Festival parade officials are unhappy over absence of local band support

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Officials of the Ontario 500 Festival Association are a bit unhappy with the music makers from local schools.

Next Saturday, when participants in the association's "Wonderful World of Wheels" parade begin their march down tree-lined Euclid Avenue, not one local high school band is expected to be among them.

"All the bands participating are from out of the area," says Al Propper, the parade chairman. "We have no local support, whatsoever.

"No one realizes what it takes to put a parade together. We need the support of everyone in the area.

"We'll get by with the number of entries (bands) we have. Naturally, it takes bands to make a parade."

Propper had hoped to have as many as 15 to 20 bands taking part in the parade, which is one of the association's major events preceeding the California 500 automobile race Sept. 2.

As of the middle of this week, only 10 bands had acknowledged their intent to participate. And of that number, four are military (Army, Air Force, Navy and Marine) bands.

In terms of proximity, the Eisenhower High School band of Rialto is the closest. Rialto is 15 miles from Ontario.

Propper said that letters were sent "several months ago" to area schools inviting them to participate, but, in most cases, no responses were forthcoming.

Some schools that did respond, like Chaffey, said they could not participate because "it was the wrong time of the year," he said.

Chaffey band director Jack Mercer was unable to be reached for comment because he is on vacation, but his secretary, Mrs. Betty Jackson, agreed that the parade comes at a "difficult time."

She said that it would be "impossible" to assemble enough band members at this time, and added that uniforms have not as yet been issued.

"It would take time to fit the uniforms," she said.

Still, Propper is skeptical.

"Maybe they have a good excuse. I don't know. They say the parade is out of season, but people from out of town are enthusiastic about participating.

"We had their support in the past, but now it is disappearing," Propper said.

State legislator critical of junior high sex textbook

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A conservative Republican assemblyman has charged that a recently adopted sex education textbook for California junior high school students would promote "sexual stimulation rather than morality."

Assemblyman Floyd L. Wakefield of South Gate also stated Wednesday the book, titled Human Sexuality, "practically condones 'unusual behavior' as being 'normal' " and said a copy of it was found in the home of suspected Texas sex slayer Dean A. Corll.

In what he said was an open letter to Gov. Ronald Reagan and Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public instruction, Wakefield concluded:

"Said the boy after he had raped his teacher: 'Didn't she spend the whole year telling us how to do it, when to do it, and how much fun it would be?'"

"This book," Wakefield said, "in my opinion, would be harmful to our youth and would promote sexual stimulation, rather than morality as outlined in our education code."

The lawmaker urged Reagan to "use your influence" to have the book withdrawn from use in schools.

Wakefield said California schools had a reputation for low reading scores, "yet, we make sure our students today learn all about sex, and parents, churches, the Constitution and the Bible are completely ignored.

"Instead of teaching our students the three R's, cleanliness and morality, the Department of Education is promoting garbage in the minds of our youth," he added.

Wakefield quoted one phrase from the book which said "... the more that scientists discover about sexual behavior, the less inclined they are to label unusual sexual expression as abnormal."

Wakefield continued, "Perhaps you (Riles) should take a trip to Texas and ask the parents of those 27 young boys —some only 12 or 13 years of age—brutally murdered by a sex pervert—if the unusual sexual expressions he engaged in should be considered normal?"

"I'm sure you feel the same revulsion and disgust I do, yet you want to promote a textbook for use in California which practically condones 'unusual behavior' as being normal?'"

Wakefield also said the book gave particulars on sexual intercourse, masturbation, pregnancy and abortion.

The state Department of Education defended the book, saying it had undergone extensive scrutiny and debate by the state Board of Education.

Gustaf contracts pneumonia; death believed at hand

STOCKHOLM (UPI) —King Gustaf VI Adolf of Sweden, who underwent surgery two days ago for intestinal bleeding, has contracted pneumonia and his physician today termed the complication "very serious."

A hospital communique signed by Prof. Gunnar Bioerck, the king's personal doctor, said the 90-year-old Swedish monarch was put back in a respirator Wednesday night when "it became difficult for the king to breathe and he showed signs of exhaustion."

The bulletin from Helsingborg Hospital in southern Sweden said x-rays showed pneumonia had set in. Bioerck said the development was "very serious."

Silent crowds gathered early today on the lawns outside the red brick hospital building after hearing the news on the radio.

"It is only a matter of hours now," one high court source said.

A medical bulletin issued shortly after 10 a.m. (5 a.m. EDT) said the king's condition remained "very serious" even though the respirator treatment had eased his breathing difficulties.

Japan's water supply is dangerously low

TOKYO (UPI) —Tokyo imposed water rationing for the second day today and officials warned that key reservoirs, depleted by a record heat wave in the history of the world's largest city, could run dry in 16 days.

Authorities ordered general rationing Wednesday, reducing supplies by 7 per cent. The household rationing followed a 20 per cent cut in water service to industries Monday.

But high costs are ahead for awhile

Butz predicts leveling off of food prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Still higher food prices are ahead for Americans, but Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz predicted today they would be smaller than some forecasters expect and that prices generally will "pretty well level off" later in the year.

Next year, Butz said in a meeting with newsmen, food prices will probably rise again. But he suggested that the 1974 increase would be 5 per cent or less over this year —far below the 18 to 22 per cent jump estimated for 1973.

The Cost of Living Council director, John T. Dunlop, was asked about Butz's 1974 forecast said there were "iffy" factors involved.

Although noting that the government has taken several actions to boost food supplies next year, Dunlop said, "there are still a number of elements in the equation that are still unknown" —chiefly the level of foreign and domestic demand and the weather.

Dunlop said Wednesday that food prices are expected to rise further after Sept. 12. Beef ceilings expire then and the entire food industry will be allowed to pass on cost increases for items like labor and packaging, in addition to increases in raw farm product costs.

Butz said there could be some increases in beef prices after ceilings are lifted. But the secretary felt the increase would not be as much as some have expected and suggested that rising post-freeze beef supplies would tend to hold down prices of pork and poultry.

Butz said he believes that after mid-September, "food prices will pretty well level off for the rest of the year."

Engine explosion jeopardizes F15

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A mysterious fire and explosion which destroyed the engine for the new Air Force F15 fighter during a crucial ground test may jeopardize the full F15 program, Pentagon officials say.

The incident occured in a Florida altitude chamber where the engine was undergoing tests simulating speeds of more than twice the speed of sound and at an altitude of 40,000 feet, Lt. Gen. Daniel James, a Pentagon spokesman, said Wednesday.

James said engineers noticed strange vibrations moments before the incident Tuesday and tried to halt the test, but were unable to act before the engine caught fire and its after-burner section tore loose.

Air Force officials said they were puzzled by the incident because it apparently was not in the section of the engine that has caused other problems and also because preliminary versions of the engine have been test flown successfully in F15 aircraft at speeds up to 2.5 times the speed of sound. The fire occurred at 2.3 times the speed of sound.

16 held in drug raids in city and West End

Narcotics raids in Pomona and West End communities resulted in the arrest of 16 persons Wednesday night, capping a three-month investigation by the San Bernardino County sheriff's department.

Approximately 30 sheriff's deputies and officers from the Fontana and Chino police departments took part in the raid, said Capt. Charles Follett of the vice-narcotics division of the sheriff's office. Warrants for the arrest of 22 persons were issued before the raid.

According to Follett, the raid culminated a three-month undercover investigation throughout San Bernardino County that had resulted in the arrest of 59 persons before Wednesday's raid.

Last Thursday, 39 persons were arrested in the San Bernardino and Redlands area, while 20 persons were jailed by authorities in the Twentynine Palms area on Monday.

Follett revealed that the investigation is expected to result in more arrests within the next week.

The 16 persons arrested during the raid Wednesday night were held on various drug charges, ranging from possession and sale of marijuana to trafficking in hard narcotics. All were confined at the San Bernardino County Jail in San Bernardino.

Echeverria tours ruins

Mexican flood death toll may hit 300

IRAPUATO, Mexico (UPI) — President Luis Echeverria Wednesday toured flood-ravaged Irapuato where thousands of homes were wiped out and an estimated 300 persons died when a dam burst, sending a seven-foot-high wall of water crashing into the city.

A cameraman who flew over the scene Tuesday said it looked "really bad—like Managua after the (Dec. 23, 1972) earthquake. At least 40,000 houses were destroyed."

Larger buildings remained standing but most of the town's adobe houses were washed away.

Army teams dug through through the mud and debris searching for victims. The army said 124 persons were confirmed dead but some sources said the death toll may rise to 300.

The disaster struck this central Mexico city of 180,000 persons Monday, the same day Hurricane Brenda slammed into Mexico's eastern coast and killed at least five persons.

After weeks of pounding rain that had already lashed a seven-state area in central Mexico, Irapuato's nearby Conejos Dam broke and sent tons of water gushing through the city.

"The dam broke while people were sleeping and the water rushed seven feet high," the cameraman said. "It covered the town in a few minutes."

Echeverria promised massive disaster aid to the stricken community 115 miles northwest of Mexico City. The army said 44,000 relief kits—each containing a week's food for five persons—were distributed Tuesday. Materials were flown in for rebuilding homes, highways and railroads.

City officials estimated damage at $80 million. Relief officials said at least half and possibly all the buildings in town suffered serious interior damage.

'I won't fail,' intense Nixon tells country

By HELEN THOMAS

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) --—President Nixon told an emotionally charged news conference Wednesday he is not going to resign and said "I would have blown my stack" if he had been told the illegal and "very, very embarrassing" facts in the Watergate case by former Attorney General John Mitchell.

He also predicted that two former top aides, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, will be exonerated "when they have an opportunity to have their case heard in court," an indication he expects them to be indicted.

As expected, he defended on the basis of the "principle of confidentiality" his refusal to release tapes of his conversations.

er during his 50-minute televised press

The President displayed pent up ang-

minute mark when they persisted with Watergate and did not ask "one question on the business of the people."

"When you say, do I consider resigning, the answer is no, I shall not resign," he said. "I have almost three and a half years and I am going to use every day of those three and a half years trying to get the people of the United Statds to recognize, that whatever mistakes we have made, that in the long run this administration, by making this world safer for their children ...and their lives better at home deserves high marks rather than low marks."

At the no holds barred session, Nixon also said specifically:

—He did not recall former acting FBI Director Patrick Gray warning him in a July 6, 1972 telephone call that some of Nixon's closest White House aides were trying to "mortally wound" him by not cooperating in the Watergate investigation.

—His confidence in Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's integrity was not only unchanged but "strengthened" despite Agnew's investigation for possible

tagon Papers trial in Los Angeles.

—Revealed for the first time that Clark MacGregor, who succeeded Mitchell as his campaign manager, was supposed to conduct a thorough investigation of the re-election committee. In the White House, the investigative responsibility was given to Ehrlichman, who in turn delegated it to Dean.

Psychiatrist break-in called a 'dry hole'

—He asked Haldeman to listen to the tape of a conversation held with Dean on Sept. 15, 1972, to make sure "we were absolutely correct in our response" to Dean's allegation that Nixon might have known about the Watergate cover-up as early as the date of the September meeting.

Haldeman listened to the tape more than two months after he left the White House and before he testified in early August before the Senate Watergate committee, which, along with special prosecutor Archibald Cox, has been denied access to that and other Watergate-related tapes.

—The September, 1971, breakin at Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office by White House undercover agents was "illegal, unauthorized and completely deplorable." But he said he and Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen agreed April 18 they were not required to inform the Pentagon Papers trial because it was a "dry hole" and no evidence was obtained by the White House "plumbers" involved in the burglary.

Nixon said he agreed 10 days later to give the jury the breakin record on the advice of Attorney General Richard Kleindienst that "It was best that we bent over backwards in this case."

—Did not believe there were grounds for impeachment proceedings against him because he had done nothing illegal and insisted he had not betrayed his oath to uphold the Constitution in approving a surveillance plan that included burglaries and mail openings.

He defended his past use of wiretaps without court order as essential to protect the national security, and declared such wiretaps as well as burglaries were used on a "very large scale" in the Kennedy and Johnson Years.

'I am going to do the best I can' conference on the lawn of the Western White House, but was in command when faced with a volley of questions which amounted to a cross examination of his personal role in the scandal.

He began the session by announcing the resignation of Secretary of State William P. Rogers and the appointment of foreign policy adviser Henry A. Kissinger as his successor, effective Sept. 3.

The President's voice trembled when he lashed out with barely concealed anger at his critics in the press and Congress and "those who would use the Watergate affair to destroy me."

He said he would "impute no improper motives" to "some political figures, some members of the press, and some members of the television" industry who would exploit the issue.

But he added, "I think they would prefer that I fail."

"On the other hand," he declared forcefully, "I am not going to fail, I am here to do a job and I am going to do the best I can...."

At the same time, when asked how much "personal blame" he accepted for the abuses, he replied: "I accept it all."

Nioxn chided the reporters at the 30-

Confidence in Agnew is 'strengthened'

criminal violations. Nixon vigorously denounced "outrageous" news leaks about the inquiry into possible kickbacks and promised to fire whoever was responsible. —He told former White House Counsel John Dean last March 21, and Dean agreed, that it would be wrong to raise as much as $1 million for the Watergate conspirators or to grant executive clemency.

Throughout the period following the June 17, 1972, break-in at the Democratic Party headquarters he would have expected Mitchell to tell him "if he was involved or if anyone else was involved. He did not tell me."

Nixon did not explain why he never asked Mitchell, who had testified that if the President had asked him he would have told him "chapter and verse."

—Denied any impropriety in having Ehrlichman approach U.S. District Court Judge Matthew Byrne about the possibility of becoming FBI director while Byrne was presiding at the Pen-

MOODS OF THE MAN

The moods of President Nixon were both humorous and serious as he answered questions in San Clemente Wednesday. Most questions concerned Watergate and the President was intense and serious, but at times he relaxed and smiled. He also announced the resignation of Secy. of State William Rogers.

Secret Service works to uncover details of 'real' assassination plot

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Secret Service and FBI are working hard to discover the roots of a "a very real" plot to kill President Nixon during his visit to New Orleans Monday.

Sources told UPI that the agencies are working intensively on what they consider "a very real thing," but the Secret Service said Wednesday that former New Orleans policeman Edwin Michael Gaudet Jr., arrested in northern New Mexico for allegedly threatening Nixon's life, probably was not part of the conspiracy.

Gaudet, 30, surrendered to a posse of Secret Servicemen near Taos, N.M. Wednesday, two days after he eluded heavily armed federal agents who sought to arrest him on a warrant near the "Morning Star" commune.

The Washington sources said Gaudet, who allegedly threatened last week to kill Nixon, was probably "a lone actor" but they added, "You can never rule out completely that he was part of it (the conspiracy)."

Local police declined comment Wednesday on a report by a New Orleans television station that three persons are being sought in connection with the conspiracy. The station said the Justice Department had authorized the arrest of three persons.

The Secret Service said it is "aggressively pursuing its investigation into the possiblity of a conspiracy to assassinate the President. There is no speculation on what's going to happen or what is going to occur."

Gaudet was coaxed into surrendering by his wife, Judy. During his arrest he blurted out: "The government is organized crime; the Pope is head of the Mafia, and I support Angela Davis for President of the United States."

He was arraigned in Albuquerque, N.M., Wednesday and held on $100,000 bond set by U.S. Magistrate Robert McCoy, pending a removal hearing Aug. 30.

Lightning-caused fires still burn

Fire fighters in Idaho and Montana played hop-scotch today with nearly 100 small timber and brush fires touched off by lightning. In California, the spread of two big forest blazes was stopped.

U.S. Forest Rangers at Boise, Idaho, reported that there were only seven major fires still out of control in the West and they had consumed nearly 70,000 acres of timber and brush land. They said 43 fires, covering 130,000 acres, were now under control.

The fires have been plaguing the West the past week. Dry weather, wind and lightning contributed to the problems for an army of firemen and fleet of air tankers.

Fred McBride of the intelligence section of the Boise Interagency Fire Center said officials hoped that all the big fires would be under control by the weekend.

As for the lightning-caused blazes, he said, "We're hoping we can stay on top of these."

In California, one fire in the Sierra near Lake Tahoe charred 10,000 acres but the flames were not spreading. And in the northern part of the state flames in a 19,500-acre brush blaze were corraled near Red Bluff.

Some cigarette brands may fail tests of tar

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Smokers whose cigarettes fail to meet nicotine and tar standards being prepared by the Federal Consumer Product Safety Commission may find their brands missing from tobacco store shelves.

Chairman Richard O. Simpson said Wednesday he is awaiting a petition from Congressmen calling for the commission to set standards for cigaretts. He also said the newly formed commission has the power to regulate and set standards for cigarettes on its own.

That power, he said, comes under the Hazardous Substances Act, which includes "any substance" which can produce personal injury through ingestion, inhalation" into the body.

Speaking at Newark College of Engineering, Simpson said the ban could include some or all brands which fail to meet maximum tar and nicotine levels outlined in the petition. However, guidelines have not been formulated yet.

Despite warnings printed on cigarette packages that "The surgeon general has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health," Simpson said sales have increased.

He said he expected the proposal to be challenged by the industry in court. An official of the Tobacco Institute agreed.

Horace Kornegay, president of the trade association, argued that the Hazardous Substances Act was not enacted to include tobacco.

"It was to prevent household injuries, such as children swallowing cleaning fluids and that kind of thing," said Kornegay.

Simpson, whose comments were made in a speech to the Product Liability Prevention Conference meeting here, said warning labels on cigarette packages should substantially back the commission's petition.

Powerful rabies vaccine will cut number of shots

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) —The World Health Organization (WHO) said today a powerful new rabies vaccine is being developed which reduces rabies treatment from 21 injections to three at the most.

The organization said in a statement: "There is hope the vaccine will replace the old type."

WHO said improvements in the safety and potency of rabies vaccine were made possible by the application of newer viral techniques. The new vaccine is being developed by the Wistar Institute of the University of Pennsylvania and the Merieux Institute at Lyons, France, together with laboratories in other parts of the world.

Jerry Priddy named in extortion plot

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jerry Priddy, former major league baseball player charged with trying to extort a quarter of a million dollars from a steamship line by saying there were bombs aboard a luxury liner at sea, will go to trial Dec. 4.

Priddy played for the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns, but spent most of his career with the Detroit Tigers, retiring in 1952. He was arrested by FBI agents June 5 on charges he had telephoned Princess Lines to tell them there were bombs aboard the Island Princess, then cruising off the coast of Mexico. His trial date was set by a federal judge Wednesday.

Agents said they took Priddy into custody when he tried to retrieve a parcel supposedly containing the $250,000 asked by the extortionist in return for revealing the whereabouts of the bombs. Two suspicious packages were found aboard the ship and thrown overboard unopened.

Firefighter misses girl's birthday

CHICO, Calif. (UPI) —Rick Clements, 22, a college student, has missed his girlfriend's birthday for the second consecutive year because he had to fight a forest fire.

Clements, a member of the "Firebreakers" volunteer crew, was in Idaho Wednesday on the fire line at the Boise National Forest and had a reporter telephone Miss Martha Lewis, 20, here to tell her he was sorry he missed her birthday Tuesday.

And Clements asked Miss Lewis to inform his landlord he would not be home for a while and to ask him not to throw out his belongings.

"I sure will tell the landlord," she said. "I'm getting used to this."

83 per cent want more Watergate

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, says 83 per cent of his mail has urged continuation of the panel hearings.

Of the 511 letters his office has received since President Nixon made his Aug. 15 speech in which he called for turning over the entire case to the courts, Montoya said 422 have asked "that we continue, as opposed to the 89 which supported the President's request."

Orchestra ready for tour of China

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI) —Eugene Ormandy will conduct the Philadelphia Orchestra in the western premire of "The Yellow River Concerto" Saturday night as a prelude to the orchestra's China tour and a final note to the summer season at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

The new score was presented to the orchestra by the People's Republic of China with the request that it be played during the Philadelphians' fall tour of China.

Daniel Epstein, a young pianist who has attempted to unite his interests in music and orientalia, was given the score by the Chinese Mission to the United Nations and will join the orchestra for the performance.

DETROIT (UPI) —Two former members of the singing group Temptations and the group's musical director were robbed Wednesday of more than $800, plus several items of clothing and jewelry.

It blamed the shortages as the cause of the recent explosion in wheat prices in Chicago and London.

In a report on the world wheat outlook since mid-July, the Council said:

"Looking at the picture as a whole, the latest assessment at mid-August confirms the previous one by the Council of a continued tight supply situation being the most likely prospect for wheat in the crop year 1973-74."

It said the "most outstanding development" since the new crop year began July 1 was "the unprecedented escalation in wheat prices which has taken place on the international market since the middle of July."

"The causes of these sharp increases," the report said, "are many and complex, but prominent among them is the strong unabated world demand for wheat."

The report said between the beginning of July and mid-August export prices of Canadian and United States wheat shot up by around 75 per cent to levels above $5 a bushel or more than $190 a ton.

It said some sales of U.S.wheat are even reported to have been made at prices well above $200 a ton.

The council's report said at the beginning of August it became evident that Argentina's 1972 wheat crop has not come up to expectations. It noted that Argentina, Australia and the Common Market have all banned wheat exports and Canada is only selling "cautiously" to traditional customers.

However, it said crop prospects in the Soviet Union are "generally favorable" and production is expected to recover from last year's disastrously bad crop.

The report said the United States expects this year to be able to export about 29.9 million tons—slightly below last year's peak level. It said this will further reduce carryover stocks of wheat in the United States.

Search narrows for source of Chino mosquito problem

CHINO — The mosquito problem for residents along Cypress Avenue may be nearing an end.

John Gerardi, director of public works, Tuesday told city councilmen that he, Bill Winsor, spokesman for the residents in the northeast section of Chino, and two county officials searched the area last week trying to discover the mosquitoes' breeding grounds.

Residents in the area first complained of a water problem, created by the release of runoff from Armstrong Nurseries of Ontario, in early February. Since that time, property owners have become plagued with thousands of mosquitoes in the area.

Citizens have appealed to both the City of Chino and county officials for relief.

Gerardi stated that the quartet had examined the Cypress Avenue drain and points north and south of the Pomona Freeway, but could not find the breeding grounds.

"Mr. Winsor and I both learned that mosquitoes don't breed in water that is drained every day. They need a pond of water that is stagnant," said Gerardi.

The director of public works added that the county had contacted him early this week and reported that the possible breeding source may be at a nearby dairy.

"We are awaiting word from the county for positive identification of the breeding grounds. We are hopeful for a solution soon," he stated.

In other matters, the council:

—Reappointed Pete Garcia to another four-year term on the Planning Commission. Garcia's current term is to expire Aug. 30.

—Approved by a vote of 4-1 a request from Sierra Glen Development for a directional sign to be placed on a residential plot at the corner of Walnut and Telephone avenues. Councilman Leonard Frketrich opposed the exception to the city's ordinance which prohibits signs adver-

10 armed Indians capture Iowa offices, then give up

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Ten armed members of the American Indian Movement took over the State Department of Public Instruction offices Wednesday but surrendered peacefully and were arrested after law enforcement officers threatened a showdown.

The Indians occupied the DPI offices on the second floor of the Grimes State Office Building for more than 2-½ hours before scrapping plans for a confrontation with some 25 law enforcement ofícers outside the statehouse complex.

A special bureau of criminal investigation agent, John Tinker, said the officers seized six .22 caliber rifles, one .30 caliber carbine, a black powder pistol and between 400 and 500 rounds of ammunition. In addition, agents confiscated food supplies, including 10 loaves of bread, which the Indians had taken into the offices.

The 10 were all charged with "disturbing the public peace and quiet." They posted bond and were freed Wednesday night, with arraignment scheduled for Aug. 31.

National AIM leader Dennis Banks arrived late Wednesday to intervene in the continuing controversy between the AIM members and state officials. Banks said he would seek a peaceful solution, but warned that Indians will "not tolerate abuse and harassment."

Banks said he will probably seek a meeting with Gov. Robert D. Ray, who has drawn criticism from the AIM representatives during the past week. Banks, a leader of the 71-day Wounded Knee, S.D., takeover, said the situation in Des Moines is "getting serious and should be stopped."

State Public Safety Commissioner Michael Sellers said he decided to "forceably remove" the AIM members—who were carrying loaded firearms—from the offices if they refused to disperse voluntarily. He said the governor was fully advised of the activities and was in "full concurrance" with the decision.

The Indians had vowed to remain in the offices until 19 demands were met. Twelve of the demands dealt specifically with the treatment of the Indian prisoners while seven new demands presented Wednesday concern other problems.

As troopers donned flak jackets in the basement, the 10 Indians abandoned their earlier plans to stay in the DPI offices and surrendered.

Ex-astronaut suffers severe burns in crash

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Former astronaut Fred Haise Jr., who survived an explosion in space aboard the ill-fated Apollo 13, crashed a single engine World War II trainer in an open field Wednesday. He was burned over 50 per cent of his body.

Galveston County deputy sheriff Eddie Burke said the plane, painted so it resembled a Japanese Zero, narrowly missed a trailer park and crashed into the field.

Haise said the plane's engine "quit" on him.

The former astronaut was taken to the John Sealy Hospital Burn Clinic in Galveston.

"The attending physician reported Haise suffered second degree burns over 50 per cent of his body and third degree burns on his legs," a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said today. "He said prognosis was good, that Haise's vital signs were stable and that it did not appear that skin grafts would be necessary."

The spokesman said the plane was a T6 belonging to the Confederate Air Force—a group that collect and fly old military aircraft. Haise was ferrying the aircraft 40 miles from an airport in Angleton, 43 miles south of Houston, to Galveston.

Reagan plan for new prison system rejected

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's $10 million proposal to revamp the state's adult and youth penal system has been overwhelmingly rejected by the Senate.

The bill (SB391) by Sen. W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, was turned down on a 16-17 vote Wednesday, with 27 needed for passage. The measure was kept alive, however, when Biddle asked to have the vote reconsidered.

The plan would merge the Department of Corrections and the Youth Authority into a single agency and combined the three state parole boards into one with responsibility for men, women and juveniles. The $10 million would go to help local governments build new facilities.

One of the bill's most controversial features would abolish state probation subsidy program which paid counties to keep felons in local facilities or on probation. The measure would provide aid a flat rate instead of tying the amount to the number of felons handled locally.

One opponent, Sen. H.L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, declared the subsidy program resulted in an increase in crime after it began in 1969 and a new plan was just a "different name with the same players."

Under Biddle's bill, Richardson predicted "more crime in California by juveniles doing their own thing in the local community."

Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, who opposed the measure, questioned whether it would lead to harsher treatment of juvenile offenders by putting them under the same department which handles adults.

Biddle said that while the 101-page proposal was "not a cureall," it was a "major step forward" in dealing with penal problems.

Decision held on return of derby's $100

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Local Soap Box Derby officials have decided to talk with 14-year-old James H. Gronen, who was stripped of his national derby title for cheating, before deciding whether to demand repayment of $100 in prize money he won in local competition.

Gronen had to win locally to get to the national competition in Akron, Ohio.

"It's my opinion that a man is innocent until he is proven guilty. I don't think it would be fair to take any action without his being there," Boulder Derby Chairman Jack Tracy said Wednesday.

Gronen was disqualified as winner of the national derby and forfeited a $7,500 scholarship when x-rays of his racer showed an electromagnetic device in the body of the car.

The magnet made the nose of Gronen's racer stick to the metal flap that falls forward down a ramp, releasing the downhill racers. The magnet thus gave Gronen's racer an extra boost, violating the derby rule that gravity is the only force that can propel the homemade cars.

Commenting on another development, Tracy said Boulder officials were certain Gronen's sleek green racer was not the same car used by his cousin, who won the crown in 1972.

"It wasn't the same car," he said. "I've seen them side by side. They're not the same. They have completely different measurements."

In Akron, derby officials said they had no reason to suspect Gronen's cousin, Robert Lange Jr., of cheating in his win last year.

Police fire on rampaging youths in Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Police fired bullets and tear gas Wednesday to break up rampaging youths marking the first anniversary of the killing of 16 imprisoned leftist guerrillas. Hospitals reported "several persons" treated for bullet wounds.

Police sources said the demonstrators set fire to a patrol car and that four policemen were wounded in the clash. They reported no deaths, but hospital spokesmen said "several persons with bullet wounds were treated." Newsmen estimated 100 persons were arrested.

Thousands of young persons defying a Peronist government ban on street rallies converged on the plaza in front of the congress building Wednesday night carrying guerrilla flags, chanting, singing and listening to speeches.

Police made no attempt to break up the crowd but as it dispersed, part of the group began hurling Molotov cocktails.

Riot police charged the group, firing bullets into the air, and the crowd scattered for cover. After firing volleys of tear gas, police rounded up hundreds of youths. Some were released after questioning, others were detained.

Earlier in the day, small incendiary bombs exploded harmlessly in the streets and leaflets carrying guerrilla slogans commemorating the "Trelew massacre" were scattered near the congress building.

The military government said at the time of the Aug. 22, 1972, incident that the 16 guerrillas were gunned down while trying to escape from the Trelew naval base where they were being held temporarily on suspicion of terrorist activity.

But three survivors said the prisoners were lined up in front of their cells in the middle of the night and shot.

Earlier Wednesday, a Peronist youth rally at the Atlanta Soccer Stadium drew an orderly crowd of 40,000 to pay homage "to all those killed in the 18 years of fighting" since former President Juan D. Peron was overthrown and to support his candidacy for next month's presidential elections.

The 77-year-old Peron is considered a cinch to sweep the election. National radio and television networks were asked Wednesday to stand by for a possible announcement, leading to speculation Peron may be considering his wife, Isabel, 40, as his vice presidential running mate.

Chavez backers drum up boycott aid in 63 cities

About 100 members of the United Farm Workers Union were in the first contingent to leave California's agricultural heartland to work with UFW sympathizers in the major cities.

A spokesman for Chavez said the boycotters will picket stores, speak to schools and civic groups, and do whatever they can to help the union cause.

Chavez himself was in Florida drumming up support for the boycott, which he hoped would duplicate the successful grape boycott of the late 1960s which led major growers to sign with his union in 1970.

The rival Teamsters Union has taken away most of those pacts this year, but Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons this week repudiated contracts his union signed with 30 grape growers around Delano, Calif. Chavez walked out of peace talks between the unions Aug. 9 after the contracts were signed.

The call for another national grape boycott came at the end of a three-day fast by UFW members in the memory of two of their pickets, Juan de la Cruz, who was shot to death by snipers, and Nafi Daiffullah, who died after a scuffle with a sheriff's deputy outside a bar.

In a letter to the A and P supermarket company, the UFW asked the firm to "recognize its partial responsibility" for the two deaths and to refrain from purchasing non-UFW harvested crops.

The letter was sent to A and P division manager J. E. Flannery in Pittsburgh, Pa., by the local union.

"We feel that A and P must recognize its partial responsibility for the deaths of Nagi and Juan," the letter said. "Your continued purchase of grapes harvested by strike-breakers have prolonged the strike and encouraged the violent and unjust acts by the growers and their allies."

State Fair to start

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The 1973 California State Fair opens Friday for a 17-day run with the spotlight on the state's No. 1 industry—agriculture.

Fair officials have thrown out the highly urbanized concept of Cal Expo employed in recent years and have recreated an old fashioned fair like the first one held in California in 1854 in San Francisco.

Earl Butz, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, will be the guest of honor at the fair's opening ceremony as part of the re-emphasis on California's agricultural roots.

For the first time since 1967, open livestock competition will be held—with $60,000 in premiums offered. Junior livestock competitions, the 4-H and FFA shows, will offer nearly $100,000 in prizes.

Long talks loom for automakers

DETROIT (UPI) —Negotiations between the United Auto Workers and the Chrysler Corp. settled down today to long, hard bargaining aimed at a Sept. 15 agreement. If negotiations fail, the strike target is Chrysler, the smallest member of the "Big Three" automakers.

The negotiations resumed Wednesday, less than 24 hours after the UAW leadership selected Chrysler as its strike target this year. The company is the largest employer in the Detroit area, with 94,000 of its 174,500 hourly and salaried U.S. and Canadian workers employed in and around the city.

When the talks resumed at the Chrysler headquarters, the UAW produced the traditional lengthy list of proposals but did not list them in order of priority. That comes later.

William O'Brien, a Chrysler vice president who heads the company negotiating team, criticized the number and type of proposals. He said they included such things as insistence that Chrysler pay the greens fees for disabled workers who golf while they are recuperating.

O'Brien said the union had presented about 400 separate demands. "We can't believe they are serious about all of them," he said.

He also said the company is preparing an economic proposal that would give workers an annual 6.2 per cent increase in pay and fringe benefits over three years.

Such a deal, O'Brien said, would cost Chrysler $154 million the first year and would increase pay and benefits by 45 cents an hour. Workers now receive an average of $7.38 an hour.

The proposal, he said, falls within the guidelines established by the federal wage control board.

The UAW did not respond publicly, but union sources said its negotiators were likely to reject the proposal on grounds that it is inadequate. The sources said the UAW is seeking a settlement nearer the 7 per cent level.

UAW contracts expire at 11:59 p.m. on Sept. 14 with all three big automakers, but only Chrysler is threatened with a strike if no settlement is reached.

Goldwater rescues couple from bay

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater dived overboard from his yacht last Sunday and rescued a man and woman who had been thrown into the water from a speedboat, it was disclosed today.

The 64-year-old Goldwater, Republican Presidential candidate in 1964, was checking out equipment on his new 60-foot cruiser, the Toh-Be-Kin, about 7 p.m. near the entrance to Newport Harbor when the smaller boat buzzed by at high speed.

The Harbor Department said the speedboat hit a large wave and the operator of the craft, Paul Brown, and a Mr. and Mrs. Glen Machlett of North Hollywood, Calif., were thrown overside.

According to the Harbor Department report, two other men were also in the boat. They were said to have turned around and picked up Brown but told the Machletts, a couple in their early 40s, that they couldn't help them and left the scene.

A cryptic note in the Newport Beach police department log said: "The vict

Legal expert says

By RALPH NOVAK

CHICAGO — (NEA) — The Watergate investigation has reached that level of permanence Americans usually attach only to such subjects as offensive football tactics, horror movies and civics. It is going to be the subject of a college course.

Phillip B. Kurland, a University of Chicago law school professor, editor of the "Supreme Court Review" and one of the nation's best-known Constitutional authorities, is going to move into the university's undergraduate school to teach "Constitutional Aspects of Watergate" this fall.

One reason, he says, is that he wants "to teach these students what the law is really about, to dispel any notions of idealism they might have about it."

Another reason is Kurland's concern with distinguishing the Watergate crisis as it affects the country from the crisis as it affects the individual government officials involved.

"The Watergate affair and everything associated with it mark a watershed and we don't know yet in what direction we're going to move," he says. "It wouldn't make a heluva difference to our future if all these guys never are brought to trail as individuals. But we have to learn never to let power accumulate in one place as it has in the White House since the New Deal began.

"There are a lot of interrelated Constitutional questions involved: separation of powers, executive privilege, search and seizure, the function and scope of legislative inquiry, the president's power to set up his own investigative unit, among others.

"But the main question is whether the Constitution allows such centralization of authority."

Kurland belives the answer to that question is "no" and his sympathies clearly lie with the Senate Select Committee investigating the Watergate burglary and its geometrically expanding ramifications. He is a consultant to both the committee's chairman, Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., and the Judiciary subcommittee on separation of powers and a friend of the Watergate panel's chief counsel, Sam Dash.

But he is nevertheless highly critical of the committee's performance during the first round of public testimony in defining the relevant constitutional issues isolating them and collecting useful information about them.

"This is essentially a fox hunt and nobody likes a fox because he's a varmint," Kurland says. "That doesn't mean you have to like the fox hunters.

"The way the hearings were conducted, there was a danger that the American public would see them as a summer replacement for the soap operas and take them just as seriously.

"The committee overall has not shown itself to be exceptionally capable or bright.

"There is no questioning Ervin's honesty or dedication. But Dash, while he is brillant, doesn't really have the killer instinct for that job. And the others all have axes to grind — presidential aspirations, personal glory campaigns or political positions to protect.

"So you didn't see any of the questioning that skillful prosecutors use to elicit information, where question B is carefully built on question A, C is built on B and so on until you get to Z and have really learned something. Here by the time they got to D, the gavel was being rapped to turn the questioning over to someone else. Or just when somebody had a witness going and you thought he was right in the middle of an especially penetrating line of questioning, he would say, 'That's all I have, Mr. Chairman.' "

Kurland says he advised Ervin to limit the committee to three members and also to put a much shorter time limit on the first phase of public hearings so that the information gathered could be more sharply focused.

Now he is hopeful that President Nixon will appear before a joint session of Congress to discuss the Watergate crisis. And while he does not expect his University of Chicago class to come up with any revelations, he says the study of Constitutional history should lead his students to a better understanding of the essence of ths problem.

"For democracy to work, the people have to have faith in their government but here now cynicism is the rule," Kurland says. "You assume that every act by a government official is a malevolent one and you find two sides in the political argument justifying their behavior by the behavior of the other side. The radicals say they have to be disruptive because the administration acts the way it does, the administration says it acts the way it does because the radicals are so disruptive.

"We just can't have any more of this ends-justifying-the-means business. We have to measure the means against some standard of morality and ethics.

"The Constitution and our laws are not just sets of written directions for specific occasions. They also concern the patterns of behavior condoned by society and in that sense Watergate is not strictly a legal matter at all.

"What we really have to do is find out exactly what the rules are."

PHILIP B. KURLAND: Not liking foxes doesn't mean you have to like fox hunters.

"THE COMMITTEE overall has not shown itself to be exceptionally capable or bright." Nameplates of the Senate investigators go into storage for the hearings recess.

Purple finches aren't really purple. The male suggests a sparrow dipped in raspbery juice, while the female is a drab brown. Native to northern evergreen forest, the birds wing as far south as Texas and Florida in winter.

—Received notice from Mayor Bob McLeod that the first general assembly of the San Bernardino Association of Governments will be held Aug. 29 in San Bernardino.

—Received information from City Manager Bob Fast that the starting time for the development of Central Avenue south of Riverside Drive has slipped from the first week of October to possibly mid-November.

Fast was given the information in a meeting with representatives of the state Division of Highways that the delay was caused because the examining federal agency took five weeks more to review the project and get the information back to the state.

"Our concern is that whereas before we could gulp and swallow on an October starting date we were hopeful that the project would be completed by Christmas and the rainy season. Now the main concern is the rainy and holiday season.

"Other things about the project haven't progressed as nicely as we'd hope so we cannot hope that the situation will move along smoothly this way to get the project finished before the significant rain in late January and early February," said Fast.

The manager also mentioned that the "remote possibility" of the federal funds being cut off later had been discussed with the state representative.

"There is also the problem of economics of construction. If construction costs go higher, the city's proportionate share will increase," he pointed out.

He warned councilmen that further delays might be forthcoming and he would keep the council fully informed of happenings in this area.

Erma Bombeck

I am so envious of women who work outside the home I can't stand it.

Every morning I watch them go off to carpetland . . to fresh bread for lunch . . to a phone that isn't sticky with grape jelly . . to perfume behind each knee that spells madness to stock boys.

And I say to myself, "There but for the grace of a babysitter go I."

I tried, you know. Interviewed sitters once for six months. Once could only work until the children came home from school. Another believed in naps until age 35. And there was one who worked one day and quit saying, "Do you honestly expect me to stay in a home where the lid is always up in the bathroom?"

I guess I'm not the only one with the problem. An R.N. from Wisconsin wrote that she left the following note with a new sitter.

"Greg gets 1 tsp. of pink medicine in refrigerator at 8 and before lunch. He has impetigo, so wash your hands good with soap and water and don't let him use anyone else's glass. O.K.?

"Paula gets 1 tsp. of orange medicine in brown bottle at 8 a.m. and at lunch. There's plenty of lunch meat, peanut butter, etc., for lunch.

"Paula has to be taken to the potty every 2-3 hours. There's a potty seat upstairs and a small chair in Rec. Room.

"Don't let dog in the chewing gum. He craves it, but has to be taken to vet to remove. He gets pill once a day (not birth control) for slight infection. Get Frank (who is in and out all day) to hold him so he will not bite.

"Take messages. Don't use toilet in utility room. It bubbles. If you have questions, call me at . . . . Tell them you are one of the nurses if they ask."

When she arrived home, the door of the house was marked with lamb's blood and there was a large quarantine sign tacked on it.

Granted, a stand-in for a mother isn't the most thrilling job in the world. It's inheriting all the crud and the problems that only love can justify.

But sometimes in the morning as I watch them go by in their cars to the city, I try to imagine what it's like having a man lean over your shoulder who isn't cleaning your septic tank. . or open letters with windows in them without becoming nauseated . . and I can't resist the impulse to yell out of the window, "I hope you find erasure droppings in your IBM Selectric."

I need that.

Watergate affair

McGovern: only alternative is to consider impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said Wednesday President Nixon "almost leaves us no alternative except to consider impeachment" of him over the Watergate scandal.

McGovern said continued refusal by the President to give Senate and federal investigators access to White House tape recordings and documents bearing on Watergate "makes it very hard for Congress not to give serious consideration to an impeachment proceeding."

"Neither I nor any other member of the United States Senate relishes the thought of impeachment," McGovern said. "We'd like to believe the President is innocent. We would like to believe he would cooperate with the constitutional procedures of our country so we can avoid the possibility of impeachment."

"But ... if the President persists in (resisting) giving either the courts or the Congress the information and the evidence that we need on which to base a sound judgment, then he himself almost leaves us no alternative except to consider impeachment. It is only through that route that we can demand the evidence that he is now withholding."

McGovern made the statement —going somewhat beyond previous suggestions by him that impeachmznt might be in the offing —in an interview on the NBC-TV Today Show.

In other Watergate-related developments:

—Melvin R. Laird, a top presidential assistant, said the Watergate hearings in the Senate had damaged Nixon's legislative program, delaying important matters. McGovern called this "misleading and unfair" and said Congress was further along with its work than at any time in his 14 years on Capitol Hill.

—A new Gallup Poll taken late last week, after the President's Wednesday speech on Watergate, showed a rise to 38 per cent (from 31 per cent two weeks earlier) in public approval of Nixon's conduct of the presidency. Fifty four per cent disapproved, down 3 points from the previous survey.

The statement by McGovern, landslide loser to Nixon in last fall's presidential election, about impeachment came a short time before a lawyer for the President and Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox faced each other in court arguments on the issue of White House documents.

The material Cox and the Senate Watergate Committee want relates primarily to conversations by the President with aides and others involved in the Watergate investigation.

Asked what brought on increased thought of impeachment, McGovern said:

"The President's (Aug. 15) speech in which he declined to answer in a point-by-point rebuttal the serious charges which have been made against him and also the glaring contradictions in the testimony of some of his top aides. Somebody has not been telling the truth.

Huge lawsuit awards have industry on ropes

NEW YORK (UPI) — When an eyebolt lifting a cabinet weighing 1,100 pounds broke, the falling cabinet crushed a rigger, paralyzing him for life and leaving him blind and deaf. A Nevada court awarded him $3.5 million.

General Eectric and Westinghouse Air Brake, the defendants, appealed the award as exorbitant, but lost. An Illinois housewife got a $930,000 judgment against the maker of a can of drain solvent that exploded.

All around the country awards of $100,000 or more are multiplying in lawsuits over product liability resulting from accidents.

"These suits are costing industry several hundred million dollars a year and the amount will go up," says Professor Richard M. Jacobs of Newark College of Engineering at Newark, N.J. "The suits are proliferating so that the trial lawyers may find in them a source of income as lucrative as the auto accident suits."

Jacobs is general chairman of the annual Product Liability Conference to be held this year at the Newark college.

A panel of legal, insurance, engineering and business experts will discuss every phase of the industry problem.

Jacobs said around 200,000 product liability suits are being tried this year and 600,000 more will have been settled out of court by yearend. They involve products and claims ranging from the $1,200 a Massachusetts druggist won because of an injury caused by a loose bottle cap to $236,000 obtained by a Californian from an auto company because hi sgas tank exploded in an otherwise ordinary rear-end collision. When a snowmobile ran away in Idaho, its owner chased it and was hit by a truck. He recovered $115,000—from the snowmobile manufacturer, not the truck owner.

Jacobs said the development of product liability law in the last few years has been startling. No longer can liability be confined to the actual seller; the manufacturer must stand behind his product no matter where or how it is sold. "What we have today is a real 'seller beware' legal doctrine replacing the old caveat emptor theory," Jacobs said.

More importantly, he said, the Federal law that created the Consumer Product Safety Commission and gave it over 10,000 products is a real time bomb. "The law is telling manufacturers to be clairvoyant about danger risks in their products—or else."

Ontarian arrested

Blowout and collision Injure 2 in automobile

POMONA —A tire blowout and collision Wednesday night on the San Bernardino Freeway resulted in two persons being injured and another being arrested.

Maryann Velez, 27, of Los Angeles, a driver, and Dawn Velez, 7, her passenger, were treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

Richard Goldon, 35, of 1351 Orchard Lane, Ontario, another driver, was booked at the San Dimas sheriff's jail on suspicion of leaving an accident scene.

Mrs. Velez was driving east on the freeway when her car blew a tire, causing the vehicle to spin around, highway patrolmen said. Her car came to a stop in two traffic lanes, facing the wrong way, west of Indian Hill Boulevard.

As the woman was trying to remove her children to safety on the side of the freeway, another car going east in a slow lane struck the left side of the car, pinning the woman between the door and frame.

The driver stopped on the freeway shoulder and ran back to see what happened, officers said. He then told the woman he was going for help.

Officers said Goldon later returned to the accident scene and identified himself as being the other driver.

Goldon was arrested after he showed officers the rout he took after leaving the accident scene. It went by several open service stations with phone booths, investigators said.

Antenna falls, causing Montclair power loss

MONTCLAIR — A radio antenna fell into power lines near Benito Street and Berkley Court Wednesday afternoon, causing a short power failure in the northeast area of Montclair.

According to Montclair Fire Chief Harold Duncan the power failure occurred when a citizens band, short-wave radio antenna being installed at 1501 Berkley Court fell onto the house's incoming power lines.

The short circuit then snapped the main feeder lines, causing a power failure from Moreno Street near Montclair Plaza south to Benito Street. Police reported that all traffic signals between Moreno and Holt Boulevard were out of order.

The power failure lasted only about 20 minutes in the general area, while the local neighborhood where the accident occurred was without electricity for about three hours.

Prison slaying case going to jury today

ONTARIO — Judge James Cunningham today was scheduled to charge jurors with instructions in the trial of three inmates of the California Institution for Men at Chino in the murder of a fellow inmate and assault on another CIM prisoner.

Following those instructions, the jury will begin deliberations in the case. The trio, allegedly members of a militant Mexican-American prison organization, was charged by the prosecution with attempting to wipe out some members of a rival prison gang.

During closing arguments presented Wednesday in West Valley Superior Court, Deputy Dist. Atty. Kenneth Kloepfer told jurors that Frank Phillip Mendoza, Raymond L. Contreras and Juan Figueroa Colon had deliberately conspired to eliminate four members of the Mexican Mafia in Palm Hall, a cellblock at CIM.

"If you look at the facts" Kloepfer said, "there is a strong posibility this was a planned, concerted attck by the La Nuestra Familia on the Mexican Mafia." All three defendants are alleged to belong to the NF.

Defense attorneys had earlier declared the three became involved in a series of fights in Palm Hall after Rudolph Cadena, who died in the battling, attacked Mendoza.

They said that negligence on the part of prison gurads in responding to the outbreak of fighting presented a "clear and present danger" to the lives of ths NF members, and that the men came to the aid of Mendoza to prevent his possible murder.

However, Kloepfer disputed these arguments, saying Cadena had been attacked and held fast by Mendoza—"the largest man on the tier"—while Contreras stabbed the victim repeatedly with a homemade knife. Then, he said, Mendoza stabbed Cedena and threw him over the second-floor railing to the ground below.

Self-defense is no defense in this case, claimed Kloepfer, noting Cadena was not only attacked but suffered 59 stab wounds, many inflicted by Contreras while Cadena writhed on the floor after being thrown over the rail.

Walnut moves to increase city's share of federal revenue funds

By LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — City councilmen Wednesday night acted to take advantage of federal revenue-sharing distribution rules and increase the city's share of the funds.

In the same session at Walnut City Hall, the council asked the Southern California Edison Co. to assist in finding ways the city can reduce demands on energy resources. Councilman Robert Lovemark summed up the body's feelings on the matter when he remarked, "If somebody doesn't start it, pretty soon all the lights are going to go off. . . ."

Expected revenue-sharing allocation increases were the target when councilmen unanimously approved—with the exception of absent Councilman Joe Dyer—the transfer of taxing authority from the city's fire and library districts to the City of Walnut. While this only represents a change in who collects the 97 cent levy, it boosts the general tax rate figure used to compute revenue-sharing allocations.

As a result, the council will take action in its next meeting to alter the budget and re-set the tax rate, an action that will not actually increase taxes paid by Walnut residents.

The council will return in an adjourned meeting next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. to officially set the revised tax rate.

Although Edison's Pomona office manager Milton LaPointe told councilmen he felt city cutbacks in power use would be most useful during "peak load" hours during the day, the council expressed interest in cutting back anywhere possible including street lighting.

However, Councilman Lovemark noted residents may object to cutbacks in street lighting. LaPointe concurred, noting that "the public calls in pretty quickly when a light goes out—some even ask for lights over their back yards."

In approving a resolution asking Edison to investigate power usage, the council agreed that "positive action" would be taken to help ease the load on energy resources, and that public opinion would be sought prior to any decision on street lighting.

In other action during the 3-½ hour session, the council:

—Rejected on a tie vote an environmental impact report declaring "no significant impact" resulting from a proposed zone change reducing minimum lot sizes to 7,500 square feet in a 15-acre area of west Walnut. While noting that a subdivision map, approved in the 1930's, presently shows legal but substandard lot sizes of 5,000 square feet, opponents of the zone change felt that approving the impact report might be taken to mean positive feelings toward development of the property. This, noted Councilman William Cotten, is not the feeling.

—Authorized the City of Walnut to join the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG), naming Mayor Richard Laughter as delegate to SCAG, and Lovemark as alternate delegate. The action establishes a "joint powers agreement" between the city and SCAG, which is accepted as the clearing-house for federal and state grant programs.

—Unanimously passed a resolution commending Progress-Bulletin reporter Joe Farley for "faithful service to the City of Walnut." Farley, who has covered city activity for about a year, will take a teaching post in Chino in September.

—Accepted bids from Asphalt Sealcoating and Paving Co. of Montclair for improvements on Vejar Road, at a cost of $5,612.50, and for work on Suzanne Park, at a bid price of $3,620.

—Directed the City Atty. Samuel Siegel to advise councilmen on possible legal methods to oppose construction of a proposed airport in the City of Industry. In discussing a measure proposed by Assemblyman Joseph Montoya, D-50th Dist; which would not permit the airport within a fourth-mile of a school, councilmen noted the bill actually could serve as an "enabling act" for building the facility. Lovemark noted, "Can't we seek an amendment ot the Montoya bill that wouldn't allow the airport within 2½ miles of a school?"

Identity of charred body eludes police

POMONA — Police here hope someone will come forward with information helping them identify the charred body of a man found in a burning pickup truck here early Monday.

So far there have been no new leads, according to Detective Sgt. Edward Staudenmayer, who added that investigators are busy checking out information developed during the last few days.

An autopsy Tuesday revealed that the victim was white and about 30 years old. He died as the result of a blow on the head and was dead before the pickup truck was set on fire.

Bad breath comes from many sources

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a young married woman and have had a problem with bad breath for as long as I can remember. You can't imagine how much personal embarrassment this has caused me at home, with friends and even on my job. I am concerned about the effects it may have on my future. Yes, I've read all the ads and tried all the different things that are recommended for bad breath, including every mouth wash that's been advertised, varieties of toothpaste, chewing gums, you name it, I've tried it.

I don't seem to have any dental problems, I go to the dentist regularly. I don't have any cavities. I brush my teeth at least three times a day, use dental floss and everything that's ever been recommended to me. But, I still have this problem.

The only time I have ever gotten any help for it is when I have taken penicillin for one reason or another. While I am taking penicillin, temporarily my problem of bad breath goes away, but it always comes back. I just can't understand why something can't be done for my bad breath. If you have anything to recommend, I would certainly appreciate it.

Dear Reader — I receive many letters complaining about this problem. It's not uncommon, otherwise the large amount of mouth wash and so forth wouldn't be sold to the public. A good place to start evaluating the problem is in the dental area, and I'm glad to see that you apparently have already done that. In addition to cavities and so forth, there is the problem of pyorrhea or inflammation of the gingiva (gums) which is often a source of bad breath, but I would assume from your regular dental evaluations and treatments that you must not have that problem.

The point that penicillin seems to relieve your difficulties suggests an infection. A common location for such an infection is the sinuses. Chronic sinusitis is a frequent source of persistent bad breath. Old diseased tonsils with necrotic cheesy material deeply imbedded within the tonsils are also a frequent source of bad breath. I would suggest you see an ear, nose, and throat specialist and have him evaluate your sinuses and tonsils for possible infections which may be contributing to your problem.

There are other causes for bad breath, including diseases of the lungs (usually associated with other symptoms), disturbances in digestion, gall bladder disease and even bad breath associated with a woman's menstrual cycle (I suspect that this is often related to an associated disturbance in the digestive tract occuring at that time). Probably the most common sources for persistent bad breath are the dental-mouth area and the sinus, tonsils, adenoid area.

Incidentally, many people don't recognize that the tongue is a source of bad breath, and it should be cleaned regularly just as teeth are cleaned. The accumulation of food and debris on the tongue can be the real problem. Obviously, to do something about persistent bad breath requires a good medical examination with particular attention to the dental, mouth, sinus and tonsil area. If a search of these areas is unrewarding, then a more complete study of possible causes needs to be accomplished. I agree it's not a simple problem because it certainly can limit one's future opportunities, both socially and even in one's chosen occupation.

When haste makes waste

BURNABY, B.C. (UPI) — Donald Ross, 35, and his wife Dorothy rode a Burnaby bus briefly Monday, then got off when they discovered they were going the wrong way. But Ross forgot he had left his windbreaker—with $30,000 in the pocket—on the bus seat.

The Los Angeles man told Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers in this Vancouver suburb the money was U.S. currency, $50 and $100 bills.

Ross, whose business is buying, fixing up and re-selling old buildings, said he was looking for an apartment building to buy and brought the money in cash because he wasn't sure about exchange rates. He offered a reward if the money is found and turned in.

Humane Society to seek more manpower

Test and protest to bring changes in dog patrols

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The Humane Society of Pomona Valley started a three-day intensified patrolling for stray dogs here during early morning and evening hours, resulting the first time around Wednesday in the impounding of nine dogs, 11 leash law citations and five citations for unlicensed animals.

Bruce Richards, executive director of the society, ordered the extra patrolling by a team of two humane officers amid a growing public outcry about the number of stray dogs in Pomona.

Following publication Sunday of a news report about the problem, the society's offices were flooded with telephone calls from irate citizens. Calls also were made to the Progress-Bulletin.

Richards said results of the three-day test program would be shown to the City Council, which has called for a public discussion of the problem next Monday night.

Richards said the purpose of the intensified patrolling was to see what would happen if maximum manpower was scheduled during the morning and evening hours citizens complained the stray dog problem was at its worst.

Richards said he would make a number of recommendations to the council Monday on ways to provide the society with additional funds to hire new personnel.

Richards earlier had stated stray dogs running out of control probably did not number more than 20 at any one time in Pomona. This observation apparently infuriated the public more than anything else included in the news article.

Richards said Wednesday that after consultations with his field officers, that 100 stray dogs in that context seemed like a more reasonable figure.

Among the recommendations to be made by Richards Monday is that dog owners be given up to five days after receiving a leash law citation to pay a fee and avoid going to court.

The fee for the first citation would be $10, the second citation would cost $15, the third one would cost $20, and the fourth time the matter would be taken to court.

Richards said violation of the leash law constitutes a misdemeanor and could mean a fine up to $500.

Richards also will recommend that the impound fee, which is presently $6, be raised to $10 for the first time, $15 for the second time and $20 the third time. The fourth time, the animal would be kept by the animal shelter pending a hearing.

Richards also will ask that the impound fee for cats and other small animals, which presently is $2, be raised to $5, and that the impound fee for large animals, such as livestock, be increased from $15 to $30 to pay for the actual costs incurred.

Richards will recommend that the city require a $10 permit for animals not normally found as household pets, such as monkeys and raccoons.

Presently the society does not receive any of the funds received as fines for violation of animal regulations. Richards will recommend that the present system of distributing the fines collected between the city and courts be changed so that the society would receive 40 per cent.

Richards said the changes would generate enough revenue to permit the society to hire one or two additional humane officers and to schedule more patrolling of the city's streets.

Most of the dogs impounded during the first hours of heavy patrolling between 5 p.m. Tuesday and 7 a.m. Wednesday, were picked up south of Mission Boulevard.

Planner laments inability to curb permit violations

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

POMONA — The city staff should have the proper legal "tools" to enforce compliance of conditions attached to conditional use permits, E. J. Gaulding, a member of the Pomona Planning Commission, said Wednesday.

"In a number of incidents, it is difficult to get compliance with conditions in use permits, with enforcement being a particular problem," he added. "We are handicapped to obtain compliance. The tools we have do not give the city people the right tools for enforcement."

Gaulding said he was reluctant now to report noncompliance incidents to city staff members. When they go out, the people involved never seem to make the corrections, he said. "Those who do not comply give a number of reasons."

The planner said such violations include storage of materials, failure to maintain landscaping, signs, and after-hours operations.

"The staff should confer with the city attorney regarding the matter, he added. "I feel sorry for the staff members who have to go out."

Planner J. Romo proposed having applicants open a joint savings account with the city for a two-year period to ensure compliance with all the conditions. "After two years, if the person complies with all conditions, then the savings account could be released."

"I do not know if we would lose any development by asking them to put up a bond or open a joint savings account with the city," he said.

Members of the Planning Commission discussed the matter Wednesday night during their regular session.

In support of a joint savings account, planner W. R. Hagstrom said this could be drawing interest for the people while a bond would cost them 10 per cent per year.

The commission took no action on the matter, but referred it to the staff for further study.

In another matter, the commission approved a request by James H. Jackson, a disabled verteran, for a conditional use permit to allow an upholstery shop in a garage at his home at 1712 Manor Circle. Jackson said such an operation would allow him to provide for his family.

Several neighbors, however, objected to such a use. One said this may open the area for several small shops at homes, thus having an adverse effect. Another asked if this use would cause other properties to have their taxes increased. A staff member said this was highly unlikely.

Some conditions attached to the use permit stipulate that employment be restricted to members of the family; no signs permitted on the premises; business hours be confined from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekdays and closed on Sundays; and no more than two customers be served at the same time.

The commission also granted use permits to allow the moving of two single story homes from Encino to adjoining lots at 1368 and 1372 S. Main St. Edward Reese was the applicant. Two other homes had previously been located on adjoining lots.

Christmas gifts in jeopardy

Time running out for homeless Santa, Inc.

And unless new quarters are located before Sept. 1, many area children may go without toys next Christmas.

Santa Claus, Inc., had been using a vacant laundry building, rent free, for the past three years to repair toys which are distributed to needy children.

Officials, however, were given notice recently to vacate the structure within 30 days. The building is to be shown to prospective tenants or buyers.

"If we don't find a new building, we will have to fold up for this year," said Mrs. Ella Bockover, Santa's vice president. "We would hope then that we could start the next year."

The group can't afford to pay rent since all the money it receives is spent for toys and supplies.

"We need a building of at least 3,000 square feet of floor area since we have lots of toys being repaired, she added. "We need at least two small buildings or one large building."

The group has the use of the basements in a church and the old city hall for storage of items. "We have been told that we may have to vacate the old city hall, and we can't use the church basement to repair toys," said Mrs. Bockover.

The immediate need for a new building was stressed by Mrs. Bockover. "Both September and October are heavy months when toys collected in toy drives are brought in for repairs," she explained.

Once a new structure is located, it won't take long to move.

"We have everything packed and ready to go," she explained. "We also have offers of both trucks and men to move us out."

Persons wanting to donate the use of a building are asked to call Mrs. Bockover at 623-1926.

8 policemen promoted to new posts

POMONA — Police Chief F. P. Wallick today announced the promotion to senior patrolman of eight veteran members of the department.

The boost means a raise in salary to $1,142 a month from $1,087. Senior patrolmen will wear badges indicating the new rank and two stripes, similar to military corporal stripes, on their sleeves.

Senior patrolman is a rank new to the Pomona Police Department and the eight men promoted to it are the first. Wallick said their duties will require them to assist sergeants in the training and supervision of younger officers.

Those promoted were:

Jerry Uribe Jr., Richard V. Shaurette, Larry G. Todd, William A. Guest, Elias Valdez, Ronald Kelly, James O. Holmes, and Jeffery B. Dye.

Infants are sought for hearing program

POMONA — Children 18 to 36 months of age who have hearing impairments are being sought by the Pomona Unified School District for enrollment in its fall Auditory Utilization and Developmental Infant Training (AUDIT) program.

In fact, the district would like referrals of any infants suspected of having hearing losses. Those under 18 months will be referred to available channels of assistance.

Mrs. Rubylee Gracy, coordinator of special education in the district, said research has shown that valuable time is lost between the crucial period of birth and 3 years if children with hearing losses are not trained.

Pomona's (AUDIT) program began last spring with five children. Classes are held five days a week at Harrison Elementary School, 425 E. Harrison Ave. Transportation is provided. Parent education is offered.

Faith Schroeder, speech pathology and audiology specialist, said that openings exist in the fall program and it is required that names of those enrolled be submitted to the state by Sept. 11.

Mrs. Schroeder said if parents have a young child they would like to have tested, or know of a child with a possible hearing loss, they should call 623-5251 and ask for AUDIT.

In California money is available to provide education for handicapped younsters as young as 18 months. State law requires that every school district provide education for every handicapped child over the age of 3.

Pomona schools last year conducted seven classes for deaf students at the elementary level. There were six children in each class. The state allows $300 a year for transportation for these children.

For last spring's AUDIT program the district purchased $500 hearing aids for each pupil, and maintained them.

The sensitive hearing devices were fitted to both ears of the wearer, and adjusted to pick up total sounds of the room or to pick up just the teacher's voice.

Instructors wore mikes to amplify their voices.

Mrs. Schroeder was assisted by kindergarten teacher Linda Hart in the classroom, which was equipped with enrichment materials for the children.

Trips outside the classroom also were a part of the program.

Each day one mother was invited to assist in the classroom.

Kiwanis president going to confab

SAN DIMAS — Dr. Norval L. Hardy, president of the San Dimas Kiwanis Club, will represent the club at the 53rd annual convention of the California-Nevada-Hawaii District of Kiwanis International this week in San Diego.

The convention will be held at the El Cortez Hotel.

In addition to his activites with the Kiwanis Club, and other civic groups, Hardy, who is a chiropractic orthopedist, has held numerous posts with the California Chiropractic Association and the Los Angeles County Chiropractic Soriety.

He and his wife, Betty, live in Glendora.

Street project will reroute traffic on Indian Hill Blvd.

POMONA — The city street department will apply a slurry mix on Indian Hill Boulevard between the San Bernardino Freeway and Holt Avenue on Monday and Tuesday, resulting in the rerouting of traffic.

City crews will begin working Monday at 5 a.m. near the freeway off-ramp and proceed south to Lincoln Avenue the first day. Crews hope to have San Bernardino Avenue, which interesects with Indian Hill, open to through traffic by 8 a.m.

On the second day, crews will work on the portion of Indian Hill between Lincoln and Holt.

On Monday morning, motorists eastbound on the freeway who use the off-ramp at Indian Hill will be able to get back on the freeway or proceed north on Indian Hill.

Within two weeks after the application of the slurry mix, a private contractor will reconstruct the San Bernardino, Lincoln and Kingsley Avenue intersections and then overlay Indian Hill between American Avenue and Holt with asphalt mix pavement. This paving operation will take about four days.

Between the two applications, city crews will stripe a temporary double yellow center line and two lane lines on Indian Hill.

Water district board drops tax rate again

The Metropolitan Water District of Southern California board of directors has adopted a 1973-74 property tax rate of 14 cents for each $100 of assessed valuation, a drop of one cent from last fiscal year. The rate was reduced last year by two cents.

But MWD's rates for untreated municipal and industrial water from the Colorado River will increase by $4 an acre-foot this year, to $56, and for untreated water from Northern California by $9 an acre-foot, from $57 to $66.

The board adopted the 14-cent rate after receiving final assessed valuation figures of $32,838,476,378 for the district's 4,900-square-mile service area in six counties.

Tht assessed value rose $1,826,955,737 or nearly 6 per cent from the tax base of last year.

The new 14-cent rate will help raise revenue to support the budget of $184,821,000 for 1973-74 adopted by the board in June.

In addition to regular operations and maintenance expense and repayment of bond financing, the budget includes $63,010,000 in proposed construction of additional facilities to distribute water from the $2.8-billion State Water Project.

The Los Angeles City Council had advocated a five-cent decrease in the tax rate.

The one-cent rate cut is expected to reduce the district total general reserves of $59,976,000 to $47,554,000 or by $12,422,000.

After reaching a high of 50 cents in 1945-56, one of the early years of operation of its Colorado River Aqueduct, the district's tax rate was steadily lowered until it reached 14 cents for 1962-63.

It was boosted to 16 cents and then to 17 cents to help cover heavy expenditures as construction of the state project and MWD's $1.3-billion expansion program to distribute water from Northern California got under way.

In all, the district provides supplemental water from the Colorado River and the state project to 27 member agencies in the counties of Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Diego and Ventura.

Water purchased by the PVMWD from MWD for the most part is treated while water purchased by the CBMWD in the main is untreated.

Garden club organized as boost in interest shown

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Garden Club will hold its first meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Pomona Public Library.

The newly organized club was formed in response to a program "Organic Gardening and the Food crisis" which was presented recently at the library by Ray Hutton of Claremont.

Hutton is an organic gardening enthusiast and an expert in nursery and landscape management.

Tuesday's program will feature Ray Harrold of Pomona and will include advice on gardening techniques. Harrold and Hutton will give advice on planting a fall garden.

Persons wanting further information about the club should contact Howard Price, public information assistant at the library at 620-2033.

Hutton has been hired by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department to present a gardening class this fall at the Ganesha Park Community Center. Classes will start Oct. 4 and continue through Nov. 29 on Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Rockefeller still on the '76 trail

Notwithstanding published accounts to the contrary, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York is said by intimate aides to be still "affirmatively bent" toward seeking a fifth term in 1974 and the presidency in 1976.

The alleged change of heart had been ascribed, at least in part, to state polls supposedly showing a currently very low popularity rating for the governor in his state. Says a Rockefeller aide:

"That is totally false. No polls have been taken."

It is not too likely that even if there had been, they alone would discourage Rockefeller if the findings were adverse. He was confronted by painfully low poll status in 1966, but staged one of the hardest-driving, most skillful campaigns in U.S. history to win his third term.

Aides argue further that if the governor had passed a real signal of intent not to go in 1974 and beyond, it would already be evident in an exodus of key men from his staff. There is no such outflow visible anywhere in his entourage.

On the other hand, for whatever they are worth at this early stage, national opinion polls do nothing to persuade Rockefeller that he has some magic track to high Republican or general voter favor at this moment.

He is totally clear of any attachment to the Nixon administration's Watergate scandals. To listen to GOP politicians from southern and western areas formerly hostile to the governor, he has moved enough toward the center, or toward what they deem conservative positions on some issues like drugs, to win at least some acceptance in every region. And he was a good Nixon soldier from 1969 on.

Nevertheless, he may at this stage be the victim of trends beyond his control. Some experienced party hands are suggesting that the moment is here for a generational jump, for a search for men largely separated from the high politics of a "tainted era."

Such a twist of fate might be especially painful for the driving Rocky. When he really had a better chance and his energies were fresher, he too often lingered in doubt. Today, knowing he will be 68 in 1976, he has for the first time in a long career passed early word of his hopes and ambitions.

His earlier presidential bids usually were handicapped by lack of field staff managers gifted with the needed strategic sense for compiling winning delegate totals. Probably he understands this at long last. The quest for such special skills surely would be more pointed in a 1976 race, though the required talents are scarce.

Vice President Agnew's new difficulties, still not sharply or wholly defined, may nevertheless heighten the nation's and the Republican party's search for someone out of a new and younger crop. But what if that search just does not pay off, if no one among the younger crew really measures up to the office?

Agnew is hurt, even if in the end he comes out clean. Those who are freshly advancing John Connally have not been talking to key Republicans lately.

Gov. Ronald Reagan? Maybe a new beneficiary, but no sure gainer. Rocky has good reason to stick in there.

La cucaracha vamooses

Man's oldest insect enemy, the wily cockroach, is meeting his match in, of all things, ordinary boric acid.

It was in 1966 that University of California entomologist Walter Ebeling found boric acid to be the cheapest roach killer and one of the most effective, while being virtually harmless to humans.

Smart as they are (and you have to be smart to endure 300 million years), cockroaches never learn to avoid boric acid.

It was not until last year, however , that the substance was used on a mass scale against the pest which, along with rats, is the bane of low-income people who cannot afford professional roach control.

Armed with squirters and boric acid, teams of volunteers with the Pasadena Community Information Center treated more than 700 homes in that city. The report is that every home where the boric acid was left "planted" remains free of roaches.

September morn

September 1 has its historically sad connotations. It was the day in 1939 when Hitler launched the horrors of World War II by invading Poland. The world will be a long time recovering from that dreadful assault upon the decencies of life the world over.

Another, far less mournful, yet still poignant attribute of September Morn is that it usually marks the day when the reluctant schoolboy finally comes to the realization that this freedom is waning fast, and reading and 'riting and 'rithmetic are just around the corner.

But there are lighter points about September's inaugural day. It launches Youth Month, appropriately enough. And some things called Home Sweet Home Month, National Better Breakfast Month, Bourbon Month and Potato Bread Month.

Mourn not September. It can't be all bad.

JACK ANDERSON AND LES WHITTEN

Indian rampage grossly overstated

WASHINGTON — To put the Indians who rampaged through the Bureau of Indian Affairs in the worst possible light, the government grossly overstated the damage they had done. It also grossly understated the support of their goals among other Indians.

When the militant Trail of Broken Treaties caravan vacated the building last November, the government announced that only the burning of Washington by the British in 1814 and the San Francisco earthquake caused greater damage.

Fearful that the militants' ideas would be adopted by young Indians all over America, the government paid to fly Indians to Washington to join it in denouncing the BIA occupiers as urban upstarts who had no support among reservation tribes.

We have now obtained an in-depth study by the House Appropriations Committee marked "Not for Release Until Authorized by Committee." In calm language, it firmly disputes many of the Nixon Administration's assertions.

Damage total

The document reports that instead of the $2.28 million damage estimated by the Administration, the actual total is closer to $1.5 million. Both figures include lost wages and similar costs.

As to charges that the occupiers were merely rabble-rousing city malcontents without real reservation membership, the House staff study found just the opposite was true. Based on the best available figures, "over 50 per cent of the Trail of Broken Treaties participants were reservation Indians." When rural and college Indians temporarily away from reservations were included, the figure was "close to . . . 70 per cent.

Like most Americans, many Indians saw the BIA takeover as "an exercise in futility" and they viewed the destruction with "scorn." But Indians also confided to the House probers that the militants' "Twenty Points . . embodied long-held Indian grievances and established a position they would support."

All but forgotten in the hysteria of the BIA coup, the Twenty Points were demands for enforcement of present treaties, home rule by Indians on Indian lands, return of much Indian land and federal social help.

Prison inmates

In South Dakota, for instance, the Indians "account for merely one-twelfth of the population (but) one-half of the girls committed to reform schools and one-third of the male inmates at the state prison," said the report.

The House investigators spent more than three months trudging through six states to interview Indians of all persuasions and found generally they "believe they have been making greater strides than ever before . . . through legitimate channels by authorized leadership."

They found that many Indians denounced the American Indian Movement which led the BIA takeover. But "among young people . . . a new sense of pride in being Indian has created a fertile field (for) AIM."

The House probers vigorously attacked "the dual standards of certain law enforcement agencies in their treatment of Indians, ranging from neglect to harassment, depending on whether Indians are the victims or perpetrators of the crime."

'Uncle Tomahawks'

The investigation also dealt courageously with what pro-Indian whites only whisper about and most Indians prefer to forget: the corruption and inefficiency among tribal councilmen who are denounced by young Indians as "Uncle Tomahawks."

Because councilmen get $50 a day and per diem expenses while their councils are in session, "the job has become highly desirable and has given rise to excesses in political machinations . . ."

Many councilmen "are unqualified for leadership, suffer inadequacies because of personal problems, lack the business acumen necessary . . . and generally neglect the responsibilities . . ."

But the federal government drains away many of the best potential leaders to work for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, thus often leaves the tribes leaderless. "Tribes are attempting to function in the 1970s with outmoded government structures designed in 1934," the document concludes.

FOOTNOTE: One of the foremost Indians held up by conservative leaders is the part-Cherokee former board chairman of Phillips Petroleum, W. W. Keeler. Keeler was revealed a few days ago as making an illegal $100,000 gift of Phillips corporate funds to the Nixon campaign.

NAVY BLUES: Shortly before Navy Secretary John Chafee departed, he decreed that sailors could wear handsome jacket-type uniforms instead of the traditional whites and blues.

But someone failed to take into account the fact that the blues and whites can be rolled compactly, while the new uniforms must be hung in lockers. Now the Navy must buy some 300,000 larger lockers and find places to put them in the already short-spaced ships.

PAUL HARVEY

Reagan and Connally in '76?

One year ago today nobody could have imagined the length and depth and breadth and height of Watergate.

President Nixon's prestige was such that his re-election with hardly any personal campaigning was assured.

The White House public image was of ultimate efficiency and integrity. In less than one year all that has been thrown into reverse gear. So it is senseless now for anybody to try to anticipate the next election.

For anyone to presume to predict your preference three years from now is preposterous. But it's fun.

The most recent Gallup Poll indicates President Nixon's popularity is less than at any time since he took office. Only 31 per cent of persons queried approve of his handling of his job.

But inasmuch as the Nixon rating was down 37 percentage points from its high, the emotional volatility of voters is obviously unpredictable.

Yet the kingmakers must try to anticipate you three years in advance, thus to begin grooming a White House successor.

Significantly, the questioners did not offer in their list of choices such names as Gov. Ronald Reagan, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Vice President Spiro Agnew, Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.), John Connally.

With the question phrased: "Suppose for President in 1976 the choice were between Republican Baker and Democrat Kennedy . . . " Baker won, 46 per cent to 44 per cent.

There is no doubt that the TV hearings have showcased the Tennessee senator to his advantage—but his strongest support in the Harris Survey came from the affluent and historically liberal areas.

In small-town America and in the South he was less well received.

As Mr. Nixon had to make a conscious effort to penetrate liberal ranks to get himself elected, Sen. Baker—assuming his national prominence is permanent—would have to sell himself to the grass roots and he'd have to reconvince the South that he is, in fact, a Southerner.

And where Sen. Baker has been catapulted to prominence by the public probe of Watergate, the American public —which quickly wearies of combativenesss—might prefer the peace and quiet represented by somebody utterly disassociated with the great controversy.

Assuming that Americans are becoming disenchanted with the "young look" and considering only what we can foresee, 1976 might offer a contest between Gov. Reagan or John Connally and Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.).

Party to press assault?

Why is the Progress-Bulletin a party to the relentless press assault on our national administration? Don't you realize that you are indicting President Nixon and now Vice President Agnew? Look at this cartoon published Aug. 16. Is it not an indictment? Do you have this right? This is not just freedom of the press, this is license.

At the time I read your recent series of articles defending freedom of the press I looked in vain for some mention in them of the responsibility of the press. Are you so intent on this campaign to oust our president that you are willing to be as unfair as were the Nixon supporters arrested at Watergate? Are you defending your freedom by fighting your critics?

It seems to me it would be far better for the country and for freedom of the press if you would live up to your responsibilities through putting a lid on biased reporting and let the proper authorities make indictments.—R. L., Travis, Claremont.

Gossip for today

"The majority of politicians would like to be honest if they could but they think that loyalty to the party requires them to use every means, fair and unfair, to win. —that, in fact is their idea of both honesty and patriotism. —The idea of there being any principle of statesmanship involved in a campaign is something that the politician cannot comprehend. He simply goes in to win."

Sounds like some of the conclusions resulting from the Watergate hearings, doesn't it? But actually those statements are excerpts from an article written by Professor J. W. Jenks, of Cornell University in 1892. They appeared in THE CENTURY under the title, "Money in Practical Politics." So, if it is any consolation, there you have the proof that a lot of folks in high government office were just as tricky 81 years ago as they are today. However, there is this heartening difference between 1892 and 1973.—Today we're trying to do something about it.

INSIDE REPORT

Nixon strategy for political recovery

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Bitter complaints by politicians of both parties that President Nixon's speech last week broke no new ground and yielded up no new facts in the Watergate scandals entirely miss the point of what the President was really seeking.

Far from a detailed, point-by-point refutation of the charges made against him and his top aides, a course long ago discarded as both politically dangerous and factually impossible, Mr. Nixon had one objective in his fourth Watergate defense in as many months: establish a new base or holding pattern, slowly expand it as the Niagara of Watergate slows to a trickle, then resume full-time normal presidential operations.

But, as White House aides are saying privately, if "the politicians and particularly the media won't allow the President" to free himself from the Watergate coils, he then has a clear option: use the full powers of the presidency to appeal for help directly "out there" — to the country.

That explains the obvious ambiguities in Mr. Nixon's 29-minute rhetorical effort.

An example: Mr. Nixon, evoking memories of President Kennedy's appeal for help following the 1961 Bay of Pigs disaster, pledged a "new level of political decency" and took much of the blame for Watergate on his own shoulders.

But in the next breath he was obliquely criticizing the Democratic Congress for its "neglect (of) matters of far greater importance" than Watergate, specifically inflation, the possibility of a "tragedy" now being played out in Indochhina, and U.S. military strength.

Next move full retaliation

The clear warning: Mr. Nixon will not do any more to clear himself of the taints of Watergate because he cannot; if the Democrats do not allow him to get back to the job of President, but continue what one high presidential aide called the "vendetta" against him, his next move will be full retaliation.

Can such a policy work for a President who has tumbled an unheard-of 37 percentage points in national popularity in the stink of Watergate?

Some Republicans think it can, on grounds that public interest in the televised Watergate hearings is clearly on the wane and that most of the voters among Dr. George Gallup's 69 per cent who disapprove Mr. Nixon's conduct as President would overwhelmingly support his continuance in office rather than his resignation or impeachment.

"That is Nixon's real base of support," one Southern Republican leader told us, "and he won't lose it no matter what happens in Watergate."

White House strategists agree, despite public criticism from such Republican conservative stalwarts as Sen. Barry Goldwater. Goldwater told us that the speech "was not effective at all in the Watergate matter." But its appeal to voters, he added, to "let him get on with the presidency" was having a highly favorable reaction at the grass roots.

Nevertheless, there are political dangers in the President's effort to establish a holding pattern now and gradually broaden it, reconverting his crippled presidency back to an activist presidency.

More problems posed

Although Mr. Nixon decreed in his speech he will make no detailed response to Watergate charges, handling that incendiary issue in the press conference now promised within the next few days poses far more problems.

One response now being studied in the White House: with new witnesses (including former White House political aide Charles W. Colson) still to testify, Mr. Nixon can rest on his refusal to deal with specifics until all testimony is in.

As for detailed answers to questions involving his own actions during the long cover-up conspiracy, he may point to the Gallup Poll to claim that, no matter what he says, the public has already been too confused by the media to draw fair conclusions. In fact, Dr. Gallup reported 9 per cent of the country believes Mr. Nixon "planned the Watergate bugging from the beginning"—a charge no witness has made.

But to Mr. Nixon today all such questions have become irrelevant details in his long-range recovery strategy. His issue is not Watergate but whether the government can govern. That was the motive of last week's uncharacteristically soft-spoken rhetoric. If the press and politicians pursue what Mr. Nixon calls the Watergate "obsession with the past," he will become shriller in going over their heads to the voters. In the White House today, there is no alternative to this strategy for presidential recovery.

LA VERNE — Cable television came under fire once more this week as residents of La Verne Heights asked the City Council for protection.

The residents complained that their reception was disrupted without notice last Friday and was not resumed until Monday morning.

They said telephone calls to the Glendora offices of International Cable TV during the weekend were handled by an answering service but were never returned.

"The telephone is the greatest dodge there is," Councilman Jack Russi agreed. "Everybody is using it."

Councilman Harrison Sanborn and Frank Johnson, who reported they also tried to call the private cable company to find out what was wrong, said they, too, were ignored.

City Manager George Caswell said the company was installing new cables last weekend in its attempts to improve service. Residents reported that service Monday was much better.

City Atty. Gene Axelrod told the council he would present a lengthy ordinance next month setting up a franchise permit for the operation of a cable TV business within the city. He said the ordinance would include certain conditions that would protect the residents.

The ordinance will provide for the calling of bids on a competitive basis, with the franchise being awarded by the council after consideration of all bids.

Weekend fiesta coming at Holy Name of Mary

SAN DIMAS — Holy Name of Mary Church will sponsor a fiesta Friday, Saturday and Sunday featuring a carnival show and a mariachi band from Mexico.

The fiesta will be conducted on the church grounds Friday and Saturday from 6 to 11 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 11 p.m.

One of Southern California's largest carnaval shows, Stark and Sons, will entertain along with Father Benjamin Romero's Mariachi Band from Guadalajara, Mexico.

Another feature of the fiesta will be a jungle outpost with over 3,600 specimens of alligators, turtles, snakes and lizards.

A variety of food booths will also be in operation.

Ed Paul is chairman of the fiesta. He is assisted by Joe Gonzales, vice chairman; Bob Severson, game booth chairman; Bob Bagan and Percy Thayer, food booth chairman; John Decker, ticket chairman; and John Platt, publicity chairman.

FIESTA TIME

Father Benjamin Romero's Mariachi Band will be one of the featured activities at the annual fiesta Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Holy Name of Mary Catholic Church in San Dimas.

Employment service for youth 'success'

SAN DIMAS — The city's first attempt at creating job opportunities for young people through the Youth Employment Service is termed a "huge success" in its third month of operation with participation from 800 local youths.

Mrs. Pat Gore, who is coordinating the program from City Hall, said the program will be conducted on a year-round basis. She said the job ratio is now two applicants for each available job.

When the program started last May the ratio was seven to one.

Mrs. Gore said the program has exceeded her expectations in both the demand for employes and also the quality of the workers who apply for positions.

Both La Verne and San Dimas young people 13 through 19 are involved in the program. Some have been placed in permanent full-time jobs and others have temporary positions doing yard work or child care.

More than 280 local businesses and residents have hired the young people.

The program has been conducted with the cooperation of La Verne College, which has supplied administrative interns to assist Mrs. Gore, and the Bonita Unified School District, which performed all of the printing needs to launch the program.

The school district also offers a work experience program for students who want to obtain school credits for their work experience.

Mrs. Gore said she has had calls from working mothers who want to continue to have student help this fall. Many students have also found permanent yard work jobs from residents of La Verne and San Dimas.

"The young people do such a great job and are so dependable," Mrs. Gore said.

La Verne preparing 42nd entry in Fair

LA VERNE — Of all the cities which exhibit at the Los Angeles County Fair each year LA Verne has the longest record of continuous entries. This year will be the 42nd year in which La Verne has entered a display.

The Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of the display is headed by Eugene Allen and Fred Miller, who have created several blue ribbon winners for La Verne in the past several years.

A special feature of the display will be a 1915 Model T Ford from the collection of chamber President Bob Harris.

It is expected that the committee will have in the display either all or a good portion of the cups and other awards won during the 41 years.

Allen and Miller are looking for vegetables and fruits for the exhibit and would like to know of persons who would donate them. Anyone wishing to contribute produce is asked to call the chamber office, 593-5265.

Hosts and hostesses have already been assigned for the exhibit throughout the fair. Included are Mayor and Mrs. Mike Morales, Miss La Verne, Jerie Martinez, on opening night, Sept. 14. Mr. and Mrs. Harris will be hosts Sept. 15. Other hosts and hostesses include city, chamber, and civic leaders and many other La Verne citizens.

La Verne makes ecology report

LA VERNRE — Collected in La Verne for recycling during June and July as reported to the City Beautiful's ecology committee chairman, Mrs. Jean Rabenau, was about seven tons of glass, 30 tons of paper and 630 pounds of aluminum.

Agencies making the collections included Boy Scouts Troop 441 and 413, the La Verne Historical Society, the La Verne College Eco-Action Club, the Church of the Brethren and the City Beautiful Committee.

MRS. BERYL DICK of San Dimas has been promoted to the position of personnel director of Foothill Presbyterian Hospital in Glendora. Mrs. Dick was formerly the personnel supervisor at the hospital. Mrs. Dick and her husband, Stanley, have four children.

Plans under way for celebration of U.S. birthday

LA VERNE — Although the event is still almost three years away, the City of La Verne has begun preparations for its own observance of the 200th birthday of the United States.

The City Council this week designated the Chamber of Commerce as its bicentennial committee, and instructed chamber president Bob Harris to prepare a report showing how the council could best support the work of the group.

"The fact that La Verne Days falls on July 4 makes the observance appropriate," Mayor Mike Morales declared. "We'll be able to combine the two."

Harris told the council that the bicentennial commitee should be organized now so that it could deal with state and local agencies which are coordinating the celebration and are partially financing them.

He said that as of last month 16 communities already had announced formation of such committees in California.

According to Harris, to qualify for the support of the American Revolution Bicentennial State Agency, the local committee will have to submit a proposed program which includes at least one lasting memorial for the occasion.

In 1976, July 4 will fall on a Sunday.

San Dimas High is registering fall students

L.V. resolution proposes earlier freeway extension

LA VERNE — The City Council passed a resolution this week in support of a proposal that would give the extension of Foothill Freeway a higher priority.

The action backs up a resolution by Upland which seeks to gain federal recognition for the freeway which now has its eastern terminus in La Verne.

City Manager George Caswell told the council that unless the extension goes on a federal priority with a subsequent federal subsidy of 90 per cent of the cost of construction, it may not be built for another decade.

Under Upland's proposal, the extension would run from La Verne to at least as far as San Bernardino, where it would join Interstate 15.

La Verne houses selling rapidly, hostess reports

LA VERNE — New houses in La Verne continue to sell at a good rate, according to reports to the Chamber of Commerce by its hostess to new residents, Mrs. Evelyn Hollinger.

The salesman for the Olin constructed homes, off N. Wheeler Avenue and north of Base Line Road, commented that all but four of the homes now under construction have been sold. They are several months from completion.

The final house in the Today Homes tract has been sold and is occupied.

Homes up for resale through Pomona Valley Board of Realtors members in La Verne number only 24. The prices of these homes range from $15,000 to $56,000. Only four of these are under $21,500. Five range in price from $28,000 to $30,000; four from $32,000 to $36,000; five are in the $37,000 to $40,000; five from $42,000 to $46,000 and one at $56,000.

Surprises for owner

Old Hanawalt house sold to L.V. College

LA VERNE — Mrs. W. C. Hanawalt of La Verne has had some surprising experiences during the past several weeks when word began to travel throughout the community that she had sold her home to La Verne College.

The two-story house at 2058 Second St. has been the subject of much conjecture among the residents.

Answering the doorbell one afternoon, Mrs. Hanawalt saw her newspaper carrier. Almost sobbing, he said, "Don't sell the house to the college. They'll tear it down."

A young woman accosted her in the post office and said something like this, "You promised me that you would tell me first if you were going to sell the house. I wanted to buy it!"

Two women showed up at her front door, one saying, "I heard that you have sold your house. I am sorry to hear that, I had hoped to buy it some day. May I come in and just look at it anyway."

The La Verne Historical Society had hoped that the house could become La Verne's museum.

As La Verne College began moving east as it looks toward enlargement of the campus, Mrs. Hanawalt's home has gradually become surrounded by La Verne College-owned land. Mrs. Hanawalt, now 87 and vigorously taking care of her property, waited to sell until she was ready to give up the home which had been built by her husband in 1905 to 1907 while he was president of La Verne College.

The house has been held by the family since that date until now. Mrs. Hanawalt expressed satisfaction with the fact that La Verne College will have the house. She says, "I think it belongs to the college. My husband was president and he was told many times that if he had not rescued the college in 1902 it might not be here today."

La Verne College had closed in 1901 because of lack of funds. Hearing about it, Hanawalt, an educator in Pennsylvania, took upon himself the task of putting it back on its feet again. In 1908 the college came under the direction of the District Conference of the Church of the Brethren and President Hanawalt went on to other challenges. Even though they moved away, the house remained in Hanawalt's ownership. The family returned in 1945. He died in 1953 and Mrs. Hanawalt has remained in the home since that time. She has now moved to Hillcrest Homes.

It is with some relief not only to Mrs. Hanawalt, but to other members of the Hanawalt clan and the community at large, that the college does not intend to tear down the house. It will be used for office space, according to Steve Morgan, assistant to President Leland Newcomer.

Two members of the Hanawalt clan are especially interested, Ross and Russel. As teen-agers they had been put to work by their elder brother pouring the cement in forms to make the blocks which comprise the walls of the lower section of the house.

La Verne girl, 17, to study in Sweden

LA VERNE — Ann Wilson, 17-year-old daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Leland Wilson, has gone to Sweden where she will live with the Bo Hansson family in Lidkoping for the coming year.

Going as a International Christian Youth exchange student under the sponsorship of the La Verne Church of the Brethren, Ann will be joining the family of a photographer. His wife is an elementary school teacher. They have two daughters.

Ann, a senior at Claremont High School, has had many opportunities to become acquainted with foreign exchange students both on high school and college levels since many of them have been entertained in her parents' home throughout her growing-up years. This will be her own first trip abroad, although her parents have traveled, especially her father on official church-related responsibilities.

The youth of the local congregation have been active in promoting the exchange, helping with raising funds for Ann's expenses.

Ernest Ikenberrys return from trip

Black IQs not lower, microbiologist contends

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A Harvard microbiologist warned the 13th International Congress of Genetics Monday against theories that blacks tend to have lower IQs than whites.

The microbiologist, Jon Beckwith, said it is "easy to expose the scientific fallacies" of those who believe intelligence varies among races.

"These theories have been refuted extensively, but generally only in scientific journals," he said. "They (geneticists) have gone to their fellow scientists and not gone to the public with their refutation."

Comments of Beckwith, joined in by others, were shots at theories of Arthur Jensen, a University of California psychologist, and William Shockley, a Stanford engineer and Nobel laureate. Both have suggested racial differences in IQ.

The question was discussed at a panel at the congress' opening. The meeting, held every five years, has attracted 2,000 geneticists from 70 countries.

"IQ measures variances within groups and it is impossible to use it to compare groups," John Garcia, UCLA psychiatrist, said. No genetic measure of intelligence exists, he said.

"There is, of course, a genetic difference between men and women, yet advocates of the IQ test maintain that men and women test out the same.

"This is not true. Women test higher on memory and verbal skill and men on social relations. They (the advocates) never talk about that."

Acclimated parakeet becomes hardy bird

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our outdoor aviary, scheduled for completion this last spring, finally has been completed now and our parakeets are in it. They are having a ball. They are much livelier and happier than when ze had them in the house. It is going to bug them, I'm sure, to go back in the house again this fall. Can we leave them out?—S.E.

Dear S.E.: Had they been out for several more months, they would have had a better chance to acclimate to changing weather conditions—though they still might make it if you have a long Indian summer.

Certainly, a properly acclimated parakeet is a pretty hardy bird. How long your birds could continue to enjoy the outside life would depend, in addition to the acclimation factor, on how well the aviary is built and if it provides adequate protection against chilling drafts and inclement weather generally. Unless it has adequate weather-tight shelter provisions, it will become little more than a contest for survival for the birds when bad weather arrives. Certainly at that point, or preferably prior to it, they would opt for the comforts of the old fireside or at least some type of indoor heating.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Peaches, my sister's dog, is accident-prone. She had her first broken leg at two months of age and has had a bunch of other broken bones since then along with dozens of other things wrong with her. Now, at 7, she is beginning to show signs of aging already. She has slowed down a lot and she has a gray muzzle. Wouldn't all of those x-rays she has had have a lot to do with it?—N.E.

Dear N.E.: X-irradiation would definitely accelerate aging processes if Peaches has been subjected to enough rads (units of x-ray exposure) during her accident-prone career. It is unlikely, though, that she has. Unquestionably, however, the stress involved in surviving all of her miscellaneous mishaps would have had something to do with accelerating her aging processes. While most dogs, even those with a comparatively serene history, will begin to show signs of early senescence—those clinical aging signs which include graying hair, wrinkling skin, tooth defects and often changes in conformation and activity—large or giant breeds would be well into these symptoms at her age, not simply beginning them. It would seem, considering her turbulent past, that Peaches is really doing quite well.

Three rifles stolen

COVINA — Three high-powered rifles were stolen in a burglary at 17003 Brockport St., the victim, John S. Privett, 28, told sheriff's deputies Tuesday. The rifles, all with telescopic sights, were taken from a gunrack by someone who entered through a bedroom window.

Panting around White House

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Noting so clearly indicates how far out of touch President Nixon is with the 60 million anti-McGovernites who elected him last fall as his recent chiding of a White House Ms-type reporter who showed up for a press conference clad in slacks.

Helen Thomas, a longtime member of the White House press corpse, appeared in the Oval Office recently for a routine bill-signing ceremony tastefully clad in white slacks and a navy blue overblouse.

After the requisite photos had been taken and the requisite 500 ballpoint pens "with which the President signed the document" were distributed, Nixon said, "Helen, are you still wearing slacks?"

Rather rude, on the face of it. She was obviously wearing slacks. What else do you do with them—wave them from a flagstaff? The waspish "still" also suggested a.) that she hadn't caught up with the latest styles, b.) that she couldn't afford new clothes, and c.) that she had grown too big for her britches.

Nixon asked the moon-faced UPI correspondent if slacks cost less than "gowns." Gowns, if you please. Did he expect a ballroom Ballenciaga at a bill-signing? Still, you could see he was cost-conscious, as Phase IV hovered over his head like Damocles' sword.

Miss Thomas said no, a pantsuit cost just as much as a "gown," and Nixon said, "Then change." He was, if we are to believe the press reports, grinning—if you could call it a grin. Yorick was grinning, too.

It is of some historical interest that a man faced with Watergate, the Plot to Re-elect the President, the ITT scandal, rampant crime and whirlwind inflation, should have nothing more important on his mind than the legs of a woman reporter. Under such stresses, it would be remarkable if he even noted if she appeared naked in the Oval Office.

Miss Thomas said that the President's daughter, Julie, doesn't even wear pantsuits to walk the dog around the White House grounds. Julie must lead a dog's life.

"The President is a gentleman of the old school," said Miss Thomas. How old? They wear pantsuits at Whittier College now.

None of the White House staff, including Pat Nixon, is permitted to wear pantsuits. Helen Smith, press secretary to the First Lady, says that Pat would chide a slacks-wearing member of the White House staff "who might come into contact with guests."

Come into contact with guests, eh? Well, that's different, of course. I don't know what goes on in them White House shenanigans, bit I'll tell you this, no daughter of mine is going to . . .

And what a juicy irony it will be, in the recent Mao-Milhaus raproachement when a delegation of Chinses emmissaries visits the White House—all the women wearing slacks.

How Mao, brown cao?

Student pilot has his woes

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) —Student pilot John Watson, 23, coming in for his first solo landing, made a perfect touchdown Tuesday.

Then his troubles began.

Watson, coping with engine trouble, couldn't make the runway at the Municipal Airport and so landed on nearby Sardis Avenue. As he rolled on losing speed, a wingtip caught on a light pole, swinging the plane into a driveway, where it crumpled, stopping about a foot short of the house.

Hearing room smoking ban is proposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Citing warnings that cigarette smoke diminishes a person's ability to reason, a Republican assemblyman has proposed legislation to ban smoking in Assembly Committee hearing rooms.

"The way things stand now, visitors to Assembly committee hearing rooms are greeted by a visible haze of tobacco smoke which resembles the atmosphere found in a sleazy pool hall, said Assemblyman John V. Briggs of Fullerton.

"The smoke-filled hearing room," he added, "is also not the kind of environment that contributes to the health and welfare of the public."

Briggs also said the U.S. Surgeon General has "found evidence that confined smoke-filled rooms diminish a person's ability to reason.

"The Assembly committee hearing room happens to be the place where major decisions on public policy are made, and I think the time has come for the Assembly to put its best foot forward to help clear the air," Briggs said.

Loss of gambling right spurs suit

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — A Reno attorney has filed a $100,000 damage suit against the Holiday Hotel, contending he was prevented from using his "legal foolproof" system to beat the roulette wheel.

Melvin Schaengold's federal court suit said the hotel's owners and the State Gaming Control Board won't let him use free coupons in a system that beats roulette legally. He accused the hotel of depriving him of his right to gamble.

Rides in boxcar with horses, wife

Charlie finds travelling with livestock nearly free

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Charlie and his wife don't think of themselves as hoboes, but today they were traveling halfway across the country in a boxcar.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vyskocil posed the thought to the Burlington Northern Railroad that a law written over a century ago was still valid permitting a man to ride free on the railroad as long as he was transporting livestock.

Since Vyskocil was sending eight horses and his household belongings to Auburn, Wash., 1,838 miles distant. The railroad agreed he should ride free—in the boxcar.

However, they said Mrs. Vyskocil would have to pay $10 for the privilege of riding with her husband on the three-day trip.

The three children, Loree, 14; Barry, 13, and Gina Marie, 6, of the family were following the freight in a passenger train.

"They probably thought we were not really serious," Mrs. Vyskocil said of the railroad people. Her husband murmured, "or crazy."

"We believe if the children have a taste of what their forefathers went through, they will look at things with a little more reverence and respect," she said.

Vyskocil is a disabled World War II veteran and is recovering from open heart surgery. At Auburn he will be close to a heart research program with which he has been cooperating.

The old law deals with emigrant traffic policy and was aimed originally at attracting settlers to the West. It hadn't been applied for about 30 years, one Burlington official said.

In all, the family will pay $914 to transport the furniture and horses to Washington.

Going one step further, the railroad said it had installed extra springs under the boxcar carrying the husband and wife. The car is also being moved just ahead of the caboose to cut down on fumes from the diesel engine.

Vyskocil said he and his wife will largely dine on K-Rations during the trip.

INJURED FIREFIGHTER—Firemen carry Lt. Gilbert Fleischhacker, one of two men injured in fighting extra-alarm fire at MacDell Corp., Chicago. An official of the corp said the damage was 1.1 million.

High school expands emphasis

GLENDORA — In addition to its college-prep emphasis the curriculum at Western Christian High School will be expanded in the new school year to increase opportunities for the non-college-bound student.

An increased enrolment of 250 students is expected at the high school when classes begin on Sept. 10. Opening day will be preceded by faculty workshops on Sept. 4 through 6 and registration on Sept. 8.

Courses to be introduced during the year are sewing, California history, American adventures and world cultures. New shop and home economics programs will be offered as well as an expanded music program.

Western Christian High will have three new teachers and will have two previously part-time teachers teaching full-time. The five teachers are Ivan Eugenio, music and band; Miss Dina Haney, physical education and math; Steve Heise, English; Greg Lane, history and Bible; and Miss Lark Ziegler, English, Spanish and French.

Four new teachers at high school

ONTARIO — An enrollment of 296 students will enter Ontario Christian High School when classes begin Sept. 4.

In the school will be 70 freshmen, 69 sophomores, 79 juniors and 78 seniors.

Four new teachers will assume positions at the school. They are Allyn Ter Haar, John Van Dyk, Miss Arlene Hoekzema and Daniel Kuiper.

Ter Haar, a graduate of Calvin College in Michigan will teach biology and chemistry and coach junior varsity soccer.

Van Dyk will teach reformed doctrine, Bible, economics and public speaking. He is a 1973 graduate of Calvin College, Michigan.

Miss Hoekzema will be teaching world history and physical education. Also a Calvin College graduate, Miss Hoekzema will also coach girls' sports.

Roth to seek state Demo nomination

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — William Matson Roth, San Francisco business executive and civic leader, announced his candidacy Wednesday for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Roth, 56, the third of six potential Democratic candidates to announce, said he hoped to lead a "crusade" to make government more responsive to the people.

The political unknown —a University of California regent for 12 years and former U.S. ambassador to the "Kennedy round" of trade negotiations —held news conferences in Los Angeles, Sacramento and San Francisco.

"Most of you do not know me, nor I you," he said. "This is the problem of government today. Our political leaders are names in the paper or actors on the television, but no real people.

Computer number

"And you and I—the citizens for whom the state exists—are computer numbers to be processed through intricate machines, not real men and women to be listened to and heeded."

Roth said he has been touring California and talking to people for four months and found there is "a profound discouragement" with government, political leaders and organizations that dominate our lives.

Roth, an active party worker for more than 20 years, was northern California chairman for Sen. Edmund Muskie in last year's Democratic primary and for Sen. George McGovern in the November election.

From shipping family

A descendent of the Matson shipping family, Roth lives in the Marin County suburb of Ross. He was the builder of Ghirardelli Square in San Francisco and has been active in the Conservation Foundation and California Tomorrow.

Roth's followed Rep. Jerome Waldie of Antioch and State Sen. George Moscone of San Francisco in announcing his candidacy in the Democratic primary next year. The three leaders in early polls on the Democratic race—Secretary of State Edmund Brown Jr., San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti—have not formally announced.

Businessmen credit military for Brazil's new prosperity

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Alvaro Bezerra de Mello, 43, executive director of the family-owned Othon Hotels, like business leaders all over Brazil, thanks the country's military government for his new optimism and pride.

Six years ago, Bezerra de Mello, relaxing in swim trunks on his motor boat, told an American visitor that Brazil was too poor to afford its extravagant new capital, Brasilia.

He said that he was little more than a steward of the achievement of his late father, who left Alvaro and his six older brothers and sisters interests in sugar mills, textile factories and hotels.

"The little building we've done was on land that he bought, so the credit is still his," he said then.

His sentiments are different today.

Over lunch at the country club, he said recently: "Brazil is thriving as never before."

"The government has done a tremendous job," he said. "For the first time, my friends in the diplomatic service are being received as representatives of a great nation."

In his field of hotel space, Bezerra de Mello said the government finally has brought the age of tourism to Brazil. The president of the national tourist agency, Embratur, Paulo Manuel Protasio, has broken that old vicious circle: no tourists, no investment in hotels; no hotels, no way to attract tourists.

In past years, when Bezerra de Mello went into government offices to seek construction permits, officials acted as if he were imposing on them and he had to pay some bribes.

"That's all changed," he said. "Now they are eager to help."

While cracking down on corruption, the government has also raised taxes and jailed evaders, but Bezerra de Mello said: "I can deduct 50 per cent of my income taxes for investment in my business."

In this atmosphere, Bezerra de Mello has hired a full time operations manager for the ten Othon Hotels and devotes most of his own time to planning new ones.

The company now owns five hotels along the Copacabana beach, two a block away and one at the Rio airport, and two in downtown Sao Paulo. Under construction are a 600-room hotel on the Copacabana, and new hotels in Bahia, the 17th century Colonial capital, and Belo Horizonte. Next in line are Brasilia, Belem, Recife and Manaus.

Sheraton, International (the subsidiary of Pan American Airlines) and Air France hotels will soon join the yearold Brazilian-owned Hotel Nacional in Rio. The Sao Paulo Hilton has done so well that Hilton is building another and is looking for land in Rio.

"When they complete the new airport (by the present Rio de Janeiro International Airport) next year, we'll have enough hotel rooms to handle big charter groups of 747 jets," Bezerra de Mello said. "Embratur has persuaded the 1975 convention of the American Society of Travel Agents to come here—we fought like hell for that."

When the convention was held in Tokyo, American tourism to Japan increased 40 per cent the following year.

Educated at Exeter Prep School and Harvard, Bezzrra de Mello calls himself "a nationalist, but within reason."

But he admits this progress has its price, "Everybody is working so hard, Rio isn't as much fun anymore."

Rhinoceros in court-- not that

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Maybe it was the prospect of a rhinoceros in a federal courtroom.

But two suburban Washington youths, Michael DiGuiseppe and Timothy Carey, both 20, are out of legal danger on charges of "petting an animal, crossing a safety barrier."

The two youths did not dispute the government allegations.

On Aug. 13 they went to the National Zoo, leaned over a small barrier and petted a black African rhinoceros. They said the rhino had "a nice smile" after he was petted.

Charges dropped

The charges against them were dropped Tuesday. In return, their attorney, Michael Perl, said the youths promised to donate $25 apiece to the zoo and not to illegally pet the rhinoceros or other animals again.

"There is no question that they had no intention of harming the animal," Perl said. There was no question of evil intent. It is understandable that they have to protect the animals.

"While my clients technically violated the law, their actions were not in violation of the spirit of the law. It was all a very friendly thing. The Park Police were friendly and the U.S. attorney was friendly.

"We suggested the rhinoceros be brought into court so that the jury could see it wasn't hurt," Perl said. "All they did was pet the rhinoceros on the snout and the horn.

Firm nearer landfill OK on garbage

OAKLAND (UPI) —Kaiser Industries came one step closer Tuesday in obtaining permission to use garbage to fill up holes in property the firm wants to use for housing tracts.

The Alameda County Board of Supervisors voted 3-2 to allow use of municipal garbage on the one-time gravel quarry property.

Environmentalists charged that the garbage, which would be drawn from 13 cities, would pollute the underground water supply near Pleasanton, where the 775-acre quarry property is located.

Kaiser still needs permits from the county zoning administrator and the state Water Quality Control Board.

She gets surprise at costume dance

Dear Ele: I went to this dance in costume as a VAMP from the old time movies. My sister and my mother made my costume and sewed me into it. Partway through the evening my bodice came undone and quite a few people saw me before I could cover myself up. I haven't been back to the center since this happened, and have done everything I could do to keep away from the people who saw this happen. The main thing is I don't know what to say if they bring up the subject. Can you help me?—"Theda Bara"

Dear "Theda Bara": Comments will come in two main categories: The sympathetic ("Oh, I really felt sorry for you — that must have been terribly embarrassing!";) and the leering ("That was some coming out party you had.") For the sympathizers, smile and say, "It really was awful. But so many people have gone out of their way to cheer me up, that I ended up feeling it's an even nicer world than I knew."

As for the leerers, say simply, "Yes, that's the last time I depend upon my mom and sis to do my costuming. It was one of the most unhappy nights of my life. So let's change the subject please." If the person won't heed your request, excuse yourself and find better company — even if it's your own. —Ele

Dear Walt: I am quite old (my early 30s) to be writing to your column. But as a man who entered teaching only last year, I think I have something to say. I was earning considerably more in sales work and left it because I had this idealistic feeling that I could help young people and thus make the world better.

By all measures (student evaluations department chairman's report, etc.) I am a good teacher. Yet I may have to leave it because of the actions of some of the students — both girls and boys — who constantly act in a seductive manner towards me.

I do not mean flirting, but actually making physical advances towards me, either with or without words. I become extremely disturbed by these actions, and either respond too vehemently and risk hurting a youngster's self-esteem, or try to pretend I don't get the message and thus become embarrassed by my own assumed stupidity.

If students would just realize that teachers are human too, and that although students may consider it a game or a compliment, a teacher is bound by all sorts of codes and laws not to respond to a student's advance, then the students might stop making faculty members uncomfortable with such action. —"Nick"

Dear "Nick": Your words are well-chosen, and may just possibly cause some readers to have second thoughts the next time they're tempted to test out their desirability on a teacher. It's truly a shame to cause dedicated teachers to lose their comfort in the classroom. Their replacements may be the most calloused and insensitive of eight to three-ers. —Walt

Safety play aids chances

A safety play is a play designed to guard against some form of misfortune. Some safety plays aren't guaranteed to work. Others risk an important overtrick, but all are designed to increase declarer's chance of bringing home the bacon.

South ruffs the second spade and sees that he is going to make his five-diamond contract provided he doesn't lose more than one trump trick. He also sees that he has no way to avoid the loss of at least one.

He leads a diamond towrd dummy. West plays the 10 and dummy's king wins.

He leads back the deuce of diamonds. If East plays the queen or jack South will win with his ace; lead the nine and be sure of his contract. But East doesn't play the jack. He simply drops the seven-spot on the table.

This is the best that East can do and it will work if South goes up with his ace, but South has no reason to do this. The play of the nine-spot guarantees the contract at no risk whatsoever and as such is a perfect safety play.

State agency first on metric system?

SACRAMENTO, California (UPI) — The California Division of Oil and Gas switched to the metric system Tuesday.

Officials said they believed the division was the first state agency in the United States to make the switch.

"By adopting this international system of measurement, our information will be uniform with the rest of the world," said Marshall Reed, assistant geothermal officer.

Attempt to limit funds for homes of President seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There will be a new attempt in Congress to impose controls on federal funds spent on security measures at any President's private homes.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said Tuesday he would offer an amendment to an omnibus appropriations bill which carries funds for the White House, Treasury, Secret Service and other agencies.

The amendment, which will be introduced after Congress returns from a recess following Labor Day, would require advance approval by the Senate and House appropriations committees for security provisions at presidential retreats.

The Minnesota senator said he also would attempt to block the $1 million contingency fund given the White House annually with almost no restrictions as to how it is spent.

Mondale said the Watergate scandal has "brought to the surface a variety of improper expenditures by the White House using monies appropriated by Congress."

He pointed to expenditures by the General Services Administration upon homes owned by President Nixon at San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla. Mondale said it also was possible some of the $1 million contingency fund was used to "pay for part of the White House plumbers operation."

Mondale said the amount of money spent on presidential retreats "raises substantial questions as to how much of that was in reality security-related." GSA has reported about $10 million was spent at San Clemente and Key Biscayne, but the White House said the money was for security measures.

Aerospace must inform: says Reinecke

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke Wednesday said the aerospace industry must not make the same mistake it made in the 1960s of failing to inform Americans about the industry's "on-earth benefits."

Reinecke made the comment in a speech prepared for a demonstration of engines developed by TRW Inc. of Redondo Beach, who is bidding to win a contract to provide Space Shuttle orbital manuevering engines. The event took place at a test site near here.

Reinecke said one reason for the aerospace slump in the late 1960s was that "the industry had such a dynamic growth that it forgot to tell the people what aerospace meant to all Americans—what it meant in terms of on-earth benefits."

He said the public, criticizing heavy government spending for sending a man to the moon, did not realize the better television and home insulation systems, new fabrics and many other items they enjoyed were the result of aerospace technology.

Vigilantes ride herd on Illinois cattle rustlers

TAYLORVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — They don't like to call them "vigilante" groups but law officers meeting to discuss the best ways to stop an outbreak of cattle rustling in Illinois agreed that night patrols of ranchers riding rural roads looking for rustlers is effective.

Other favored methods of combatting the worst year of rustling in the state's history were having police check all cattle trucks and getting ranchers to brand their livestock.

"The only thing I can see is for farmers to get together and ride the roads at night," said hog rancher Larry Boblitt, who had 20 head of feeder pigs, worth about $800, rustled from a lot near Pawnee, Ill., two weeks ago.

But Gov. Daniel Walker, who met with law officers from 45 counties Tuesday said, "These are not vigilante groups. These are concerned citizens who are getting together and working with their sheriffs patroling their counties through the night."

Such groups are operating now in about 15 Illinois counties.

State officials reported 978 head of cattle were stolen in the first six months of the year —nearly twice the total of the same period last year and an all-time high for Illinoism The total losses projected for 1973 are $552,000.

Police said modern cattle thieves often work in gangs and some use semi-trailer trucks and helicopters.

"It may sound amusing to some that Illinois is plagued with rustlers. But it is deadly serious," Walker said.

The farmers formed an antirustling task force, headed by Whiteside County Sheriff L.L. Kimmel, which will make specific proposals on how lawmen can deal with these gangs and will serve as a network through which law officers can exchange information on livestock threats.

In addition, Walker said he will explore the possibility of an executive order requiring that farmers brand all their cattle. Other proposals included formation of a special agency to hunt down rustlers, and checks by state police on all trucks carrying livestock.

Some state funds ready for welfare

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A relatively small amount in state funds are available for legislation ranging from welfare to school lunches now that lawmakers have approved a $700 million tax break for Californians, according to a top Reagan administration official.

Roy M. Bell, assistant director of the Department of Finance, said "We're down pretty much to where we have no general fund surplus left."

In an oral report to the Senate Finance Committee this week, Bell said a $1 billion surplus, including about $250 million in federal revenue sharing funds, had been anticipated at the end of the current fiscal year.

But Bell declared passage last week of a bill imposing a six-month halt in the sales tax increase and giving a one-time income tax rebate of up to 35 per cent would consume about $725 million of the expected surplus.

That would leave about $25 million in the general fund and $250 million in revenue sharing to pay for measures which would increase welfare benefits and provide mandatory lunch programs for low-income schoolchildren.

That means, Bell said, legislation would have to be financed with the federal revenue sharing money, which is set aside in a special account and has some strings attached to it.

Bell also noted the Finance Committee and the Assembly Ways and Means Committee have approved measures "vastly over-appropriating" funds compared to the amount which is available.

The fiscal report said legislators face a "technical crisis" about how to appropriate the revenue sharing funds in order to minimize federal limitations on its use.

CHIN TEST FOR ALI

Former World Heavyweight Champion Muhammed Ali puts his chin to the test for the first time since Ken Norton broke his jaw last March. Ali's sparring partner is Billy Daniels.

Singer still optimistic after frustrating night

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — Bill Singer is sure he'll win 20 games this year.

But he'd better not have many more no decision efforts such as he experienced Wednesday night at the Big A. The one-time "Singer Throwing Machine" of the Dodgers came within two outs of his 17th victory and second shutout of the season.

He threw 120 pitches of which 77 were strikes.

In 8 1-3 innings, Bullet Bill had held Milwaukee to three scattered hits while striking out five and walking but three. Holding a 3-0 lead with one out and two men on he was replaced in the ninth inning by Steve Barber.

Barber walked John Briggs to load the bases, then struck out Darrell Porter after going to a 3-2 count. That made two outs.

Out went Barber. In came Aurelio Monteagudo. Pinch hitter Joe Lahoud slammed one of his offerings over the right field fence for a bases loaded home run that put Milwaukee in front 4-3.

Singer could not be faulted if he suddenly had a taste of ashes in his mouth. Fortunately for the club, Frank Robinson and Lee Stanton led the Angels back to first a tie then a 5-4 victory.

"I felt real powerful tonight," said Singer who had avoided the press for some time after the game. "They're a bunch of crybabies and I really would have liked to beat them."

Singer was probably referring to Milwaukee batters expressing disgust and disbelief on called strikes and manager Del Crandall who has complained vehemently to the plate umpire about Angel pitching and pitches in both games.

Singer supported manager Bobby Winkles' move in taking hi mout. "I got a little tired," he admitted. But if I can throw the ball like I did tonight, I'll win a lot more.

The Angel ace still is ahead of his 1969 pace when he won 20 games for the Dodgers. He didn't win his 17th until August 31 that year. His next start is slated for Sunday evening (August 26) against Boston.

The Halos tied the game after two were out in the ninth. Richie Scheinblum pinch hit a single. Billy Parker ran for him. Robinson, who had cracked his 546th career homer in the first inning, brought him in with his 489th career double. It was also his 2,746th career hit tieing him with Luke Appling for 26th on the all-time list. The double put him 24th, ahead of Mel Ott, on that list.

It might be said that Robbie's double knocked Singer out of the spotlight, Monteagudo off the hook, and Winkles from the top of the second-guessers' list.

The end came suddenly in the 10th when Lee Stanton, who had entered the game as a pinch runner in the eighth, smashed a 1-1 offering by reliever Eduardo Rodriguez (6-4) over the fence for a game-winning home run.

Dave Sells (6-2) picked up the win. He had replaced Monteagudo after the veteran had given up a hit and a walk in the Milwaukee 10th.

A rather defensive Bobby Winkles stated emphatically, "Singer was tired and I wasn't going to leave him in there. He lost a lot in the eighth and all of it in the ninth."

Jeff Torborg confirmed Winkles' judgement.

"Singer had real good stuff most of the game," he said. "He got a little tired in the eighth and began to lose his control . . . that's the way it affects him. His fastball is still hard, but he can't put it where he wants to."

Three of the Angels' runs came on solo homers . . . by Robinson, Mike Epstein, and Stanton. The other scored in the seventh. The Halos could net only a single run despite a double, two singles, and an error.

ANGEL NOTES — Clyde Wright (8-17) faces either Bill Champion (4-5) or Skip Lockwood (5-7) in tonight's windup.

Following brawl with Cubans

Battered Yanks in semis

MOSCOW (UPI) —Bloodied and bruised, the United States basketball team is in the semifinals at the seventh World University Games today after a chair-slinging, glass-throwing brawl with Cuba that rocked the host Russians' elaborate security precautions.

The wild melee which left U.S. trainer Duane Woltzen of Sheboygan, Wis., unconscious and two other players bloodied by broken glass, shunted U.S. swimmer Allen Poucher's second gold medal of the Games to the background.

Also lost in the furor were the five more gold medals won by the Russians that increased their commanding lead over the U.S. in that category to 53-8.

The U.S. cagers were only 90 seconds short of the end in their 98-76 win over Cuba when Mitch Kupchack of Brentwood, N.Y., was kicked to the floor by a Cuban player and came up swinging.

That sent both benches to emptying and before long, the Cubans were slinging wooden folding chairs and glass was flying. Woltzen, who was knocked unconscious by a chair in the back of the head, was livid after the game.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The United States mens basketball team, suffering from the after-effects of Wednesday night's brawl with Cuba, nipped Brazil 67-66 today to qualify for the finals of the World University Games tournament.

David Thompson of Shelby, N.C., led the U.S. scorers with 17 points in the sloppiest game the Americans have played to date. Their record now stands at 7-0.

No doubt, the U.S. swimmers couldn't believe what was happening to them either when, under sunny but chilly conditions, the Russian's Lubov Rusanova upset world record holder Cathy Carr in the 200-meter breaststroke in the opening event at the open-air Luzhniki swim complex. The Russian girl's winning time of 1:15.5 was nowhere close to Miss Carr's world mark of 1:13.5.

The Soviets followed that up with a one-two sweep by Nikolai Pankin (2:23.8) and Igor Tchordakov in the men's 200-meter breastroke.

But then came Poucher, an 18-year-old from Jacksonville, Fla., to save the day with his second gold medal in 24 hours— a hard-fought 2:05 victory over West Germany's Floket Meeuw.

Denny's waiting for the right ride

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Nobody seems to notice the guy sitting in the cart behind pit wall.

He was there last year.

He's Denny Zimmerman, the guy who opened the Ontario Motor Speedway's first day of practice last year by being the first on the track. In fact, he held the fastest speed for the first day of practice ever until Lee Kunzman topped it Monday afternoon in preparing for the fourth annual California 500 to be run here Sept. 2.

But this year he's just waiting.

What's he waiting for?

A ride.

But not just any ride—a GOOD ride.

"It's no use running if you can't get a good car to drive," said the 1971 Indianapolis Rookie of the Year. "There were cars available, but they weren't what I wanted to drive. And the ones I wanted to drive were already taken. So now I'll just wait and hope something comes up."

Summing it up, Denny is not racing with any one team and he can't find the ride he wants this year at Ontario.

There were still some cars unassigned Wednesday afternoon, but Zimmerman was still playing his waiting game.

"If there are any cars still unassigned, they're just backup cars which aren't intended to be driven," he added.

Denny has been waiting a long time for a ride this year, passing up chances at Indianapolis and Pocono already this season.

"I'd like to race for one of the big teams," he said. But he wouldn't specify which big team was his favorite. "I'm not particular," he inserted.

Last year Zimmerman piloted the Vollstedt Eagle which Tom Bigelow is driving this year for Rolla Vollstedt. With it he qualified in the middle of the sixth row with an average qualifying speed of 185.480 miles per hour.

But when race day came, he only lasted 58 laps and finished 25th after having oil pressure problems.

"I'm looking for an improvement," he said from his pit-side golf cart. "I've been racing a long time, but not particularly a lot of this kind of racing. When I come back to race this kind of car, I want to do better. 'I'll wait as long as I have to get the right car."

Denny started driving stock cars in 1957, moving on to sprints in 1966. He drove his first championship race at Trenton 200 in 1968. He passed his driver's test at Indianapolis in 1969, but did not attempt to qualify.

Drivers split on qualifying races

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Driver opinion on the new qualifying procedure (twin 100-mile races) for this year's California 500 is divided.

A. J. Foyt isn't happy about anything including the reduced purse for the big race itself. On the other hand Mario Andretti and Jerry Grant voice strong support.

In the middle are drivers like Bobby Unser who aren't as yet sure whether it is good or bad. Unser admits his feelings have changed somewhat.

The senior member of USAC's famous brother act set a world's closed course record of 201.9 miles per hour in last year's qualifications at OMS.

"I definitely didn't like the new procedure when I first heard about it nor did any of the drivers or the car owners," Unser exclaimed.

"It's got to be really bad on the car owners because it means another engine in most cases, especially for the faster cars," he continued.

"For the Driver it just means less chance of starting in front in the race," he said. "Now you have to qualify twice. It was bad enough having to qualify once and now you have to do it two times."

Two things made Bobby alter his thinking about the new system of qualifications a little.

"I found out there was championship points on the races," he grinned. There's money to be won which we never had a chance at in qualifications."

"You know there's pro and cons on it," he admitted. "Maybe after we try it one time we'll like it, I don't know. Right now I'm not sold on it. But I understand management's viewpoint. They can sell more tickets and the fans get more racing."

"There are lots of things that we do," he concluded, "that we don't like at the time. But after we try them we end up liking them. I don't feel as strongly about it now as I did when I first heard about it. That was a shock."

Unser's racing partner on the Dan Gurney team, Jerry Grant seems 100 percent sold on the qualifying races. Grant was the first driver to break the 200 mile barrier at Ontario last year.

"It's gonna be extremely interesting for the spectators," he predicted. "It's got to be a sprint race involving one pit stop for most cars and the purse is enough money to make it worthwhile running hard."

"I'm here to go racing and actually the more racing I can do the better I like it," he continued. "It takes lots of spectators to make good racing and I think this is the type of show that's gonna bring them back with their friends and I'm all for it. I hope other promoters take up the same thing."

The husky 200 pound Grant has no qualms about running in the qualifying races Sunday even if he clinches a spot in the first row Saturday.

"We'll be out there Sunday whether we're number one, two, three, five or what. "This is racing and this is what we're here for," he concluded.

Andretti also expressed support of the new format. "Well, I think it's good, not only from the challenge factor," he said, "but also because there is a lot of incentive to the driver such as championship points, lap money and prize money all of which will make it worthwhile."

As for participating in a 100 mile race a week before the 500 miler, Andretti expressed no apprehension of risking his life and equipment a week before the big race.

"If anything should happen," we have a week to repair it," he said. "As for getting hurt, you can get hurt walking across the street. I don't think there's any more chance of getting hurt. If it's going to happen, it's going to happen no matter where you are or what you're doing."

Andretti, Grant, the Unsers, and even A.J. Foyt will be out there this weekend doing their best no matter how they feel about the new qualifying procedure.

He singled home Felix Millan from second with two out in the bottom of the ninth Wednesday night to give the New York Mets a 4-3 win over the Dodgers. The night before, he scored a run and drove in a run in a 2-1 victory over the Dodgers.

The Dodgers have won only one game on their current roadtrip of five games, and the only reason they've been able to cling to first place in the National League West is a losing streak by the Cincinnati Reds.

The Dodgers still have their two-game edge over the second place Reds who dropped their second straight to the Chicago Cubs Wednesday.

The Dodgers had a 3-2 lead over the Mets Wednesday night after 8 ½ innings but were beaten in the bottom of the ninth for the second night. Pinch-hitter Cleon Jones singled, advanced on an infield out, and scored when Millan singled. Millan took second on Rusty Staub's single and Pete Richert relieved Jim Brewer. Milner promptly singled.

Dodger catcher Steve Yeager blocked the plate but Millan brushed him aside to score.

Starter Andy Messersmith, who gave up seven hits and struck out five in seven innings, contributed to his own difficulties. In the fourth inning with the bases loaded and two out, Ted Martinez hit a high pop fly. Messersmith waved away his infielders, backed off the mound and muffed the ball, permitting Milner and Ed Kranepool to score and give New York a 2-1 lead.

The Dodgers got their first run in first inning on Joe Ferguson's sacrifice fly to score Manny Mota. The Dodgers tied it at 2-2 in the sixth on Ferguson's double and a single by Steve Garvey.

And the Dodgers got their 3-2 edge in the seventh on singles by Yeager, Dave Lopes and Mota plus Willie Davis' sacrifice fly.

Tug McGraw pitched the last two isnings for the Mets and got his first victory against six losses.

Hank hammers homer No. 705

ATLANTA (UPI) —Hank Aaron hit his 32nd homer of the season and the 705th of his career in the Atlanta Braves' 6-4 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night and is now only nine short of Babe Ruth's all-time career record.

The Braves are idle today.

Janice Metcalf loses to Aussie

MOSCOW — Janice Metcalf of Claremont lost her bid for third place in women's singles play Wednesday in the World University Games in Russia.

Miss Metcalf, who lost to champion Olga Morozova 7-5, 8-6 Tuesday, was defeated Wednesday 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, by Australia's Janet Young.

TRIPLE TIMED — A trick lens makes a triple exposure of golfer Jack Nicklaus caught on the practice tee at McGregor Downs Country Club, Cary, N.C. Nicklaus will defend his match play championship.

Match Play Championship overshadows L&M tourney

CARY, N. C. (UPI) —With Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and six other big name golfers waiting in the wings, the overshadowed $100,000 L&M Open gets underway today with a field eager to leave the tournament.

Instead, Graham and the other 146 golfers in the L&M want a shot at head-to-head competition with Nicklaus, Weiskopf and the others who prequalified for the $150,000 U.S. Professional Match Play championship, which starts on Saturday.

Specifically, they want a chance to meet Nicklaus, the man whose awesome talents have led to almost wholesale domination of the game and who won the match play last year, defeating Frank Beard for the title and the $40,000 winner's share.

If Nicklaus should win it again, the prize would put his career winnings within striking distance of an unprecedented $2 million, at $1,989,129.

Nicklaus rolled into this Raleigh suburb Wednesday and gave the McGregor Downs Country Club course his nod of approval.

"It's a good golf course, it's got a lot of good shots on it," Nicklaus said. "I hit the ball pretty good when I got loosened up. I just had a little bit of trouble on the first nine ... It's been a few days since I played."

Nicklaus already has amassed $245,424 in winnings this season with victories in the PGA, Tournament of Champions, Atlanta Classic, Crosby National and Greater New Orleans Open.

For anyone else, that would be heaven. But big Jack says it's not good enough.

"This summer my game really hasn't been all it could be," he said. "I just couldn't get myself really charged up to go. Not that I didn't want to, I just couldn't."

Nicklaus says he doesn't see match play as such as being any more a challenge to him and his prestige, than medal play.

"Any time I play it's a direct challenge. I don't ever like to lose.'

At the end of the L&M's second round, the top eight golfers in the tourney leave the field for match play. The ninth man takes the lead going into the third round of the L&M, played simultaneously over the 6,786-yard, par 71 course.

"The L&M is sort of a reward in reverse," says Graham, who won it last year in a four-way playoff. "I've won it and I've loved it, but now I'm ready to move on —to the match play."

Besides Nicklaus and Weiskopf, the British Open champ, the exempt players for match play are U. S. Open champion Johnny Miller, Masters champion Tommy Aaron and Lee Trevino, George Archer, Grier Jones and Jerry Heard, Nos. 25 respectively on the PGA's Tournament Players Division exemption list.

Brash young tour sophomore Lanny Wadkins, $40,000 richer after winning the USI Classic last week, is in the L&M field. He jumped from the tournament into match play last year, only to fall victim to Nicklaus in the second round.

Oilers play Cowboys tonight for Governor's Cup Trophy

By United Press International

It's billed as the Battle of Texas but it's more a battle for self-confidence as far as the Houston Oilers are concerned.

The Oilers play host to the Dallas Cowboys tonight for the "Governor's Cup" trophy in National Football League preseason action but more importantly, Oiler Coach Bill Peterson is looking to finaly establish a winning attitude.

Winning is something unfamiliar to the Oilers.

Houston won only once last season and the Oilers have lost all three pre-season games this year.

Peterson and new General Manager Sid Gillman cleaned house after last season and it's been difficult getting all the new people to work together.

"Houston is playing under its potential at this point," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "And I mean no criticism by that. But they must have 25 or 30 new players on that team and to try to make them jell all at once is very tough."

Roger Staubach will start at quarterback for Dallas (2-1) as Landry tries to make his annual quarterback decision between Staubach and Craig Morton. Dan Pastorini will quarterback the Oilers.

In other NFL action this weekend, Cincinnati is at Detroit and Los Angeles is at Miami on Friday night while on Saturday, Atlanta plays Cleveland at Knoxville, Tenn., Oakland meets Minnesota at Berkeley, Calif., Baltimore is at Washington, New England at New Orleans, Philadelphia at San Diego and the New York Jets at St. Louis.

In news from the camps Wednesday, Miami traded third-string quarterback Jim DelGaizo to Green Bay for second round draft choices in 1974 and 1975.

Running back John Riggins, the Jets' Most Valuable Player last season, reported to camp Wednesday night, five weeks late. Riggins refused to report until his contract dispute was settled but relented and will work out while still negotiating.

Quarterback Joe Namath, who suffered an elbow injury last Sunday, threw well Wednesday and will start against the Cardinals Saturday night.

Archie Manning was listed as a doubtful starter at quarterback for New Orleans Saturday against the Patriots.

Superior Court Judge David A. Thomas will decide today on Lance Rentzel's suit against the NFL. Judge Thomas took under submission Wednesday arguments in a suit filed by the Rams' wide receiver to nullify his suspension by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Court predicts Billie will beat Bobby Riggs

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Margaret Court, beaten by Bobby Riggs early this summer in their heralded "battle of the sexes," predicted Wednesday arch rival Billie Jean King will easily defeat Riggs in their $100,000 winner-take-all match next month at Houston.

"Billie Jean will beat him," Mrs. Court said during play at the Virginia Slims Women's Grass Court Championships, where she is the defending champion.

"I would have beaten him myself if we'd played the next day," she said. "I would like another go at him myself."

Asked why she lost to the 55-year-old Riggs the first time, the 30-year-old Australian star said "It started out as a gag. I didn't realize Riggs was taking it serously. Then on the day of the match, it became really weird. He wandered into my room about an hour before the match and said he was sorry — He had the wrong room. Then he gave me the roses on the court. Mentally I wasn't ready for him."

AYSO stars in Germany

TORRANCE — The AYSO Orange County first division all-stars will have ample opportunity to show the strength of American soccer when they face Germany's best for a series of six games beginning in Karlsruhe Sunday.

In the final match of the three-week tour, the American Youth Soccer Organization clashes with Hannover 96 at the Niedersachsen (Lower Saxony) Stadium, home of the pros and next year's World Cup.

'Nasty' plays the villain

By MILTON RICHMAN

Occasionally he fools tennis fans and even some officials. Seldom any of his fellow players though.

"They say he's crazy, but I like him," volunteered Jimmy Connors, the U.S. professional singles' champ who has partnered with Nastase in doubles competition.

Connors laughed.

"If he's playing you, he'll come up and hit you on the back of the head sometimes," said Connors, still smiling. "Nobody really gets mad at him. They'll say 'Nastase, get outta here!' I don't know if he does something like that to upset his opponent or not. It's him. He likes to enjoy himself. He's a kid at times and a business man other times. A lotta people think they can put things over on him. They can't. He's not dumb."

Ilie Nastase isn't crazy either.

He appreciates all the usual things like money, prestige and girls, whom he doesn't talk about so much anymore since marrying dazzling Dominique Garzias of Brussels. Belgian girls have tempers, too.

Along with all this appreciation, Nastase or "Nasty" as he's called, is probably the most talented player in tennis today.

He has the quickest hands of anyone, probably the quickest legs also, and he isn't at all slow upstairs either.

This being the case, it has occurred to him that it doesn't hurt to have people talking about him all the time. They don't necessarily have to be talking about his ability either. They can be talking about his behavior or misbehavior on the court.

Graebner leaped over the net, grabbed Nastase and said, "you do that again to me and I'll crease your head with this racquet."

A couple of weeks ago during a match in Cincinnati he got into such a hassle with a referee that his $9,000 purse was held up after he won the match and he still faces a possible fine by the USLTA.

Nastase was talking about the episode Wednesday after being presented the Dewar's Merit Award for the excitement he has generated in tennis.

"This time I am right," he said, referring to the incident in

In 1959, he began a four-year career with Utah State and was 5-6. At the end of his tenure the Aggies were 31-11-1 and two-time co-champions of the old Skyline Conference.

He moved to Stanford in 1963 and the Indians were 3-7. By the time Ralston completed nine seasons, Stanford had a composite record of 54-36-3 and back-to-back Rose Bowl victories.

Last year was his first with the Denver Broncos. Ralston found his team stuck with a 5-9 mark —which incidentally was the second best record in Denver history.

"I'm tired of losing," said the always-smiling Ralston. "We had our losing season and that's enough in this business. You don't stay around long if you keep doing that."

Two medical checks will play a part in the Broncos' 1973 season —the health of quarterback Charley Johnson, picked up from Houston dur- the physical status of Floyd ing the 1972 preseason, and Little. Both say they are fit and ready to go.

"You saw what I did last year when I only had one good leg for seven games," said Little, who underwent knee surgery over the winter. "Well, now I have both legs and just wait until I get started. They haven't made the man to replace me yet."

With only one good leg for half the year, Little ran for 859 yards, was the team's second leading receiver with 28 for 366 yards and was second in scoring with 78 points.

"I feel better than ever," said the all-pro from Syracuse. "I can't wait to be part of a winner."

Johnson, who Ralston said proved to the downtrodden Broncos that they could be winners, also is ready to get started.

"It's just a matter of pride," said Johnson, the 13-year veteran of the NFL who hit 132 of 238 passes for 1,783 yards and 14 touchdowns last year. "We've got these guys believing they can win any game they went. That's a big step from where we used to be."

"We've got to have some depth to win," Johnson said. "It's a matter of working together to develop a solid club. You've got to help each other.

Johnson will have help in the backfield with All-America Otis Armstrong battling Little and Joe Dawkins, a second stringer last year, moving ahead of Bobby Anderson at fullback.

Riley Odoms has taken the starting role at tight end with the wide receiving corps bolstered by the midseason acquisition of Haven Moses and Rod Sherman and the recovery of Jerry Simmons from a fractured collarbone.

Both the offensive and defensive lines are beginning to look familiar—with Denver's defense back to the level of two years ago when it led the NFL in quarterback sacks.

Veterans Paul Smith, who played in the Pro Bowl, Lyle Alzado, Pete Duranko and Tom Domres man the line spots with rookies Barney Chavous and John Grant pushing for starting roles.

Linebacker is the weak link. Only second year man Tom Graham, a middle linebacker, is assured of a spot. Nine candidates are fighting for the other two.

JOHN RALSTON . . . Denver coach wants to win

Rams will face Dolphin regulars

MIAMI (UPI)—The Miam Dolphins will face the Los Angeles Rams Friday night minus their third string quarterback, who had been doing much of the work during the pre-season games.

The Dolphins announced Wednesday they had traded left-hander Jim Del Gaizo to the Green Bay Packers for second round draft choices in 1974 and 1975.

Del Gaizo, a free agent from the University of Tampa, was starting his third season with Miami and had played in every exhibition game thus far, completing 19-of-37 passes for 254 yards with two touchdowns and one interception.

"Naturally, I have mixed emotions because I have a lot of friends here," said Del Gaizo, who had asked Coach Don Shula to trade him so that he could have a crack at being a No. 1 quarterback. "It's a great opportunity. If I can't win the job, then I don't deserve it."

The Dolphins also announced the starting lineup for the Rams' game in the Orange Bowl will include all the regulars. Shula said he will start Bob Griese, Jim Kiick and Larry Csonka in the offensive backfield, and he said Mercury Morris would see limited action.

NSF sets third annual free hunter safety clinic Sept. 15

SANTA ANA — The third annual free Hunter-Safety Clinic, sponsored by the National Shooting Foundation and Western Outdoors Publications is set for Saturday, September 15 at Southcoast Gun Club in Santa Ana.

The clinic, limited to 500 participants, is conducted in cooperation with the California Department of Fish and Game. The Department requires every person hunting in the state to have either a hunting license from the previous year or to have successfully completed the hunter safety course prior to obtaining a license, in accordance with state law.

The course normally takes four days to complete. Through the efforts of the Western Outdoors Outdoor Sports Clinics program, which provides for instruction in many outdoor subjects throughout each year, the hunter safety course can be completed in only one day.

WOOSC—Qualified instructors will take over the ranges and facilities of the Southcoast Gun Club for specialized instruction in various phases of gun handling and safe conduct afield.

Courses will include proper methods of entering and exiting a vehicle while carrying a gun, gun and ammunition handling, basics of archery and bowhunting (required of bowhunters as well as gun hunters as a condition of the hunter safety course), sportsman-rancher relations, crossing a fence with a firearm, use of firearms in a duck blind, survival, general safety in the field, a review of hunting regulations, conservation, and actual live firing of .22 caliber rifles on the range.

Rifles are being supplied by Winchester, Remington, Browning, Grants for Guns in Costa Mesa, and, Fowler's Gun Room in Orange. All weapons will be single-shot .22's and are fired under strict range rules as supervised by the instructor staff.

Registration is open to anyone above the age of 10. Previous age restrictions placed minimum ages at 12 years but numerous calls to the WOOSC offices by interested parents and individuals resulted in dispensing the requirement that persons over 17 years could not participate and that the minimum age be kept at 12 years.

Youngsters between the ages of 10 and 17, however, MUST be accompanied by an adult.

CFG votes to reduce duck limit

SAN FRANCISCO — The California Fish and Game Commission meeting here Friday reduced the limit on ducks by one throughout the state as it set dates and limits for the 1973-74 waterfowl season.

The state had been given the option under federal guidelines of either reducing the limit or cutting the length of the season by 14 days. The Department of Fish and Game recommended the change in limit.

Also in accordance with federal guidelines, the commission restored the season on canvasback ducks in most areas of the state where it was eliminated last year.

The bag and possession limit on canvasbacks is one except for the four areas not opened — San Francisco Bay, Suisun Bay, Suisun Marsh and the Salton Sea.

Dates and limits set for the duck seaons are:

Southern California — split 93-day season, Oct. 13 Nov. 23 and Dec. 1 Jan. 20. Limit 6 per day and 6 in possession.

Colorado River Area — (coincides with Arizona season) split season, Oct. 1 Oct. 28 and Nov. 17 Jan. 20. Limit 5 per day and 10 in possession.

Northeast Section of State — (Coincides with Oregon season) straight season, Oct. 13 Jan. 13. Limit 5 per day and 10 in possession.

Balance of State — straight season, Oct. 20 Jan. 20. Limit 6 per day and 6 in possession.

The seasons for geese, aside from several special regulations on Canada geese, are the same as those for ducks except in the Colorado River area where the season will be from Nov. 17 Jan. 6.

In Southern California the split season on Canada geese will be Oct. 27 - Nov. 23 and Dec. 1 - Jan. 6, but hunting for Canada geese on the Imperial Wildlife area and the Salton Sea Wildlife Refuge will cease at sunset Dec. 23.

Statewide the limit is 6 per day and 6 in possession.

In the balance of the state 3 must be white and no more than 3 dark.

Only 2 Canada geese or its subspecies may be included in a daily bag in most of Southern California except for Imperial, eastern Riverside and southeastern San Bernardino counties (excluding the Colorado River area) where only one Canada goose or its subspecies may be taken.

Statewide the bag may include only one Ross' goose.

The season for coots and gallinules is the same as the season for ducks. The limit is the same as last year, 25 per day and 25 in possession, singly or in the aggregate.

Hunters may take black sea brandt from Jan. 19 to Feb. 20. The limit is unchanged from last year, four per day and 8 in possession.

The jacksnipe season is the same as the duck season. The limit is 8 per day and 16 in possession.

Fewer applicants for hunt permits

SACRAMENTO — A total of 15,295 persons applied for permits for antlerless and either-sex deer hunts in California during 1973.

Included were 3,285 applicants for three early season hunts for which 1,500 permits were awarded, and 12,295 for the 10 late season hunts with 3,875 permits.

Last year there were 1,729 applicants for 1,550 permits in five early season hunts and 21,864 for the 17 late season hunts with 7,575 permits.

Sale of licenses, tags is way ahead of '72

SACRAMENTO — Sales of 1973-74 hunting licenses and deer tags are running far ahead of those for last year, the Department of Fish and Game reported today.

For July, the first month of the new license year, the DFG reported license sales totaling 5,357, up 712 from the 4,645 for the initial month last year.

DFG License Chief James Christopher declined to speculate as to the reasons for the increased license and tag sales, but he said the development was "pleasant news after several years of decline" in such sales.

He said he expected the heavier volume to continue.

Department spokesmen previously had said the shortage of beef and increased meat prices could result in more interest in hunting and, therefore, a greater volume of license and tag sales.

A total of 628,800 licenses were sold last year, a drop from the previous year's 698,799. Deer tag sales for the last two years totaled 353,300 and 384,240, respectively.

Milton Richman's column

question. "It was 100 degree humidity in Cincinnati, so hot you couldn't see the ball. I know the man (official) couldn't see the ball, but he made the call anyway. I called him over and I say to him, 'Dummy, you go up and watch on television'."

Nastase has won both the French and Italian championships this year. He also was the winner of the 1972 U.S. Open championship at Forest Hills and begins defense of that title next week. He and Stan Smith are co-seeded No. 1 in this one.

Some old guard Romanian-Americans have expressed their displeasure at Nastase's court conduct, claiming it gives them all a poor image, but Ilie counters, "I'm prouder of being Romanian than they are."

Nastase has his defenders among the Romanians.

"They have given him the nickname 'Nasty,' but he is anything but that," said Vladimir Cohn, one of his friends present at Wednesday's luncheon. "He has helped many people without ever talking about it. I am one of these people."

Shoe eyes fourth stakes victory

DEL MAR —Such A Rush, romping winner of the C.T.B.A. Stakes two weeks ago, will have an added advantage when he goes after the $21,650 De Anza Stakes Friday with Bill Shoemaker in the saddle — the man who has won the last three runnings of the race.

Such A Rush and Shoemaker will have five opponents in the six-furlong futurity preview, including Vikine's Sprite, runner-up in the C.T.B.A. and New Stamp, impressive winner his last time out. The Gay Greek, Eshea Yonkel and Miracle Hand complete the field.

The De Anza has been run only four times—once at the Del Mar fall meeting in 1967—and in the past three renewals at the summer session it has been all Shoemaker. He won it aboard Kfar Tov in 1970 and with Lucky Mike last year, and in 1971 set the stakes record of 1.08 2-5ths on Macarthur Park, who went on to take the futurity.

At the Music Center

New York City Opera sets performances

LOS ANGELES —The New York City Opera will make its seventh annual visit to the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center Nov. 14-Dec. 9.

The company, directed by Julius Rudel, will present 24 performances. Mail orders for tickets are now being accepted at the box office.

This season marks the first production to be mounted by the Music Center Opera Association in conjunction with NYCO — Bellini's masterpiece in Italian, "I Puritani," with Beverly Sills as Elvira. Tickets for this work are $15, $12.50, $10, $7.50 and $5 at its three performances on the evening of Nov. 28, a Dec. 1, matinee and the evening of Dec. 9 Rudel will conduct.

Miss Sills will oepn the season Nov. 14 with a special MCOA benefit performance at 8:30 of Donizetti's "Anna Bolena" in Italian as the first opera of the "Tudor Trilogy" to be presented during the season. Prices containing a tax-deductible contribution to MCOA, are $25, $15, $10, $8 and $5. There is only one staging of this West Coast premiere of a new production by the company, Rudel conducting.

A new production of R. Strauss' "Ariadne auf Naxos," with prologue in English and the opera in German, will be staged the evening of Nov. 15 and matinee Nov. 25, Rudel conducting. Prices for this work, and all other remaining productions, are $12.50, $10, $8.50, $6.50 and $5.

Three performances of Bizet's "Carmen" will be sung in French on the evenings of Nov. 16, Nov. 20, and Nov. 24.

Donizetti's "Roberto Devereux," the second in the Tudor trilogy, will be sung in Italian on Nov. 17, Rudel conducting. The third opera of the trilogy, Donizetti's "Maria Stuarda," also will receive a single performance on Dec. 5, in Italian, Charles Wendelken-Wilson conducting.

"La Boheme," Puccini's enduring love story, will be heard in Italian on the evenings of Nov. 17 and Nov. 25. The same composer's "Madama Butterfly" will be heard in Italian on the evenings of Nov. 18, and Nov. 23. Giuseppe Morelli conducts for both.

Returning from its success of last season is a second sung-in-German work, R. Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," on the evenings of Nov. 19 and Dec. 3. Rudel conducts.

Puccini's "Tosca" will be sung in Italian on the evenings of Nov. 27 and Dec. 2. Rossini's "Il Barbeire di Siviglia," also in Italian, is scheduled for the evening of Dec. 8. Morelli conducts for both operas.

The double-bill of Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Leoncavallo's "I Pagliacci," conducted by Morelli, will be heard on the evenings of Dec. 1 and Dec. 7 in Italian; and Masseneet's "Manon" will be heard in French on the evening of Dec. 4, and matinee, Dec. 9. Wendelken-Wilson conducts.

All evening performances begin at 8 p.m., except Nov. 14, which is at 8:30. Matinees begin at 2 p.m.

Television's Hot Lips Houlihan deemed a traitor to her class

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Loretta Swit is a traitor to her class as a co-star in the television series "M-A-S-H."

Her class is blonde. Her credentials: sexy. Her bosom: ample.

But instead of following in the great tradition of Hollywood blondes by striving to be cuddlesome and adorable, Loretta is obnoxious as nurse Hot Lips Houlihan in the weekly comedy series.

"Hot Lips is obnoxious at times," she agreed. "But I always look for something amusing about her so audiences will laugh instead of just being angry with her.

"She's a career woman and sticks by Army regulations. She also happens to fall apart over Major Burns in the show.

"It's difficult to play an attractive woman who plays the heavy week after week. I can't be too heavy because, after all, it is a comedy. But I have to put down the men and lay them out as often a possible."

Loretta is the envy of almost every actress in Hollywood. She is the lone regular female in a cast of five males. Her co-stars are Alan Alda, Wayne Rogers, McLean Stevenson, Larry Inville and Gary Burghoff.

LORETTA SWIT

She often refers to them as "my five guys." They in turn are protective of her. "She is the only unmarried performer in the group.

"We've only been on the air a year, but the family feeling of this case is just about the best known story in Hollywood," Loretta said. "When we got together this month to start the new season it was like a reunion of school kids—all the hugging, laughing and screaming.

"We're extraordinarily close because we're all from the theater and lived on the East Coast. So we have a similar approach to our work. We help one another and criticize ourselves to make the show better."

Loretta is delighted that she plays a female who is having an affair with a married man— another first for a situation comedy.

"When you stop to think about it, the situation is really risque for television," she said. "But viewers accept it as a reflection of life. We haven't had one letter objecting to the romance.

"I work hard at making Hot Lips understandable. As an army nurse she lives by the book except in her private life. Most of the time she is the antagonist who puts the story in motion.

"Naturally, it's not all acting. Part of Hot Lips is me. Physically we are the same person."

Off the set, however, Loretta Swit is free of Hot Lips' objectionable traits, leaving only a very attractive blonde who, like it or not, is in the best tradition of Hollywood sex symbols.

Reagan scores big burden on taxpayers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Noting that the working man spends nearly 45 per cent of his salary on the government, Gov. Ronald Reagan said he would expose "the economic and social mythology that's led us so far astray" when he ends his term in 1974.

"No government has ever survived a tax burden (on its people) higher than 33 per cent," Reagan told a Rotary Club audience recently.

He attacked closing tax loopholes as a rhetorical device "used to get more money for governments who have too much already."

Tabori to play in 'As You Like It'

LOS ANGELES — Actor Kristoffer Tabori will play Orlando in the Los Angeles Free Shakespeare Festival production of "As You Like It," opening at the Pilgrimage Theater Sept. 3.

It took three long distance phone calls from New York and a quick flight to Los Angeles to read the part for director Alfred Ryder, but it paid off in getting the role he wanted. Tabori, the actor son of Viveca Lindfors, is no stranger to Shakespeare, having appeared with the American Shakespeare Festival in Connecticut, and in the Mark Taper Forum production of "Henry IV, Part I."

Among others in the large cast are Penny Fuller as Rosalind, Joan Van Ark, Celia; Roscoe Lee Brown, Jaques, and William Schallert as Touchstone.

72 booked as illegal aliens

OCEANSIDE (UPI) —Border Patrol agents raided a house here Monday and rounded up 72 illegal aliens from Mexico, but were unable to locate the smugglers who brought them into the country.

Authorities said the aliens were awaiting transportation to Los Angeles when they were arrested.

Many vehicles

The students, faculty and staff of the University of Missouri at Kansas City have registered more than 10,000 motor vehicles.

DEER AND DEAR—Bert (Dick Van Dyke) and Mary Poppins (Julie Andrews) greet a group of forest friends during an outing in the country in this scene from Walt Disney's "Mary Poppins," now showing at the Fox Theater, Pomona. The companion feature is "Snowball Express," another Disney film. Continuous showings start at 1 p.m. daily.

Comedian set for 'Show of the World'

INGLEWOOD — Comedian Bob Newhart will join a talent of stars in KMPC's fourth annual "Show of the World" at the Forum Sept. 22.

Newhart was the hit of the 1970 and 1971 "Show" presentations, blending routines from his record and night club successes of the past with humor which has made him a current star.

He joins a talent line-up which includes Diahann Carroll, Glen Campbell, Jack Jones, Johnny Mathis, the Mike Curb Congregation, the Vogues, and Nelson Riddle and his orchestra for the big charity presentation.

The Permanent Charities Committee of the Entertainment Industries receives all proceeds from "Show of the World" tickets, priced at $6.50, $5.50, $4.50 and $3.50. They are on slae at the Forum box office and Ticketron Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies.

CAPSULE REVIEW — Age cannot wither nor custom stale the power, beauty, fun and excitement of the music of Belgian poet-composer-actor Jacques Brel, and the current edition of "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" is a spectacular mounting of his music and lyrics.

The four-singer revue is playing in a dozen cities in the United States and Europe. The quartet now offering it at the new Classic Theater in West Hollywood recently moved over from a successful run in the Westside Room of the Century Plaza.

Star of the show, in the role originated by the incandescent Elly Stone, is former USC coed Betty Rhodes, who has played more than 1,000 performances of "Jacques Brel" in New York, Washington, Cincinnati, San Francisco and Sidney, Australia. Her "My Death" is a thing of chilling beauty; "Sons of" could make you weep. And she does a moving "Old Folks" and a superb "Marieke."

Margery Cohen is a fine singer and a riotous comedienne. Her "I Loved" is touching; "Brussels" is a circus. She does "Timid Frieda" with the others in a Vegas night club style that violates the subtle poignancy of Brel's vignette.

George Ball of Los Angeles and Joe Masiell of New York are great — handsome, virile, strong-voiced and apparently tireless. Like the girls, they are consumate actors as well as excellent singers; they are also imaginative clowns. Ball is tremendous in "Alone," "Bachelor's Dance" and the enchanting "Fannette." Masiell gives us a robust "Mathilde," hams up "Funeral Tango" and misses the nuances of Brel's "Jackie," but is great in "Amsterdam" and "Next!"

The current edition of "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" is a credit to Jacques Brel.

Fair running out of money

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 President King Cole said Tuesday that the world environmental fair was running out of money.

Cole told a news conference that the cash flow situation was "extremely serious" and was now worse than three months ago.

The City of Spokane has applied for a $4 million Economic Development Administration grant but there has been no indication whether it would be awarded, he pointed out.

J. Welles Henderson, appointed by President Nixon as Expo's commissioner, said that only three nations besides the United States have made firm commitments to participate in the fair.

Henderson said he has just returned from a tour of Common Market countries trying to lure them to join Expo. But, he said, he could get no commitments.

The United States, Russia, Taiwan and Korea were the only major exhibitors as of the moment, he said.

WRONG MAN IN PRISON—What might cause morning blues for many is great for Wilbur McDonald as he returns to work as a machinist in Chicago. McDonald, 38, was absent from his position for three years while he served time for the murder of a woman in Chicago's Grant Park. Last week a man arrested for another Grant Park slaying confessed to crimes that lead to McDonald's release from prison.

Call for 'homesteaders' issued in Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) —Detroit isn't exactly a frontier, but there may soon be homesteaders on its horizon.

Philadelphia City Councilman Joseph Coleman made a visit to Detroit this week and spoke to the city's Common Council members about a revival of the old west's Homestead Act.

Coleman proposed that abandoned homes in the Detroit area be given to "homesteaders" for a token fee and a promise that they would fix up the homes and live in them for at least five years.

Coleman was the originator of Philadelphia's Urban Homestead Act that was signed into law July 20. He said some 3,000 Philadelphians have applied for the homes since the law went into effect.

"It is now more critical than in the 1800's that we settle our cities," Coleman explained. "The question is: Whether we as a nation can afford not to develop today's frontiers.'

Coleman pointed out to the Detroit council that there are more than nine million abandoned homes in the U.S. today, and these are "the precursors of a dying nation."

"They lead to poor schools, poor education, ignorant and unproductive citizens," the Philadelphia attorney said. "As a result, we have in turn poor, crime-ridden communities and blighted cities."

Coleman said there are five key factors in the awarding of homes.

First, those applying for the low cost homes must be 21 years of age or the head of a family.

Second, they must be U.S. citizens or declare their intention of being naturalized.

Third, they must be financially able to provide $8,000 in rehabilitation work to the home, or have trade skills to carry out such improvements.

Fourth, they must begin renovating the home within 60 days of taking residence, and be able to bring it up to city building codes within two years.

And finally, they must promise to live in the home for at least five years.

The Detroit councilmen said they would thoroughly investigate the possibility of such an act and seek to pressure the federal government into helping such a program in Detroit.

"This is one of those rare programs that combines the very realistic and the idealistic at the same time," Detroit Councilmna Carl Levine said.

Bike is most efficient ride

Science has found that the most efficient means of human transportation is riding a bicycle. Walking at four miles an hour consumes about .1 horsepower of energy while bicycling two-and-a-half times as fast uses only .15 horsepower.

Arab 'blackmail' rapped

DENVER (UPI) —Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., said Tuesday night some major American oil companies would like the United States to surrender to Arab blackmail demands to protect Middle East oil.

Humphrey said the efforts by these companies, many of which have taken out newspaper advertisements to suggest the United States retreat on its support of Israel, legitimizes the demands of the Arab world.

"Neither the U.S. government nor the giant industrial concerns should capitulate to those Arab nations which are hinting at economic blackmail as a way to force us to change our foreign policy," Humphrey said in a speech prepared for the Denver Friends of Yeshiva University.

"No one would deny that we need access to the large oil reserves of that region," he said. "But the way to guarantee a dependable oil supply is not to relinquish our support of Israel. If we do so, we would be allowing the more militant Arab states to gain virtual control over the Middle East and the Persian Gulf."

He said Israel had nothing to do with the current or future shortage of oil and gasoline in the United States.

Ask Dr. Brothers

No instant answer

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My young son (10) cannot stand failure and when something doesn't work as he wants it to, he throws a temper tantrum. Since both his mother and I work, he often delays the temper outburst until we get home. He is a bright student but he wants instant success and he quickly loses patience with himself if there is any difficulty in learning a particularv project. While he meets relatively little difficulty now, I'm sure once he gets to college, he's going to find that everything doesn't always come so quickly or easily.

He also has an unusual number of fears. His mother feels these might be reduced if she quit her job. I hate to see this as we need the extra money and she enjoys her work. —L.J.

Dear L.J.: No one likes to fail, but it is important for children to learn that it is often from failure that we learn the most. A certain amount of frustration also leads to learning and it prepares us for what we may expect later in life.

Your son's attitude is neither unusual nor surprising, considering our culture. Sociologist Hans Sebald of Arizona State University feels that many modern youth problems are a result of the concept that there are instant answers for almost all problems. If your son watches television, he sees advetisements promising instant relief with a pill for anything—nervous tension, bad disposition, headache, stomachache, etc. Dr. Sebald says it is not surprising "if Junior thinks he can gain instant knowledge of God or enjoy instant sex simply by dropping a pill."

You can help prepare your son for the more difficult times he may find in college if you point out to him that every inventor, every creative artist has had to experience failure many times. Frustration comes when we overreach but this is part of the challenge. Some educators feel it is so important that they deliberately ask their students to do some things they know they cannot do. They invite the students to fail so that they learn to experience failure in a controlled situation. Seeing that it is not so terrible and being freed of this fear, the students are also freeing their minds for experimentation and creativity.

Ignore the temper tantrums as much as possible. Once your son sees that tantrums will not get the result he wishes he will stop demonstrating his anger in this way. Encourage him to talk it out and let him know that this is the kind of behavior that does get results.

The answer to curing your son's fears does not rest with your wife's quitting her job. I don't know what your son's particular fears are, but University of Vermont psychologists feel that practice in facing the fears in gradual stages does help overcome them. They found positive results when the tried this method on four major phobias.

Your son may be trying o tell you something through his temper tantrums and fears that he's unable to express to your directly. He may be calling out for more attention. When both parents work, it is extremely important that they devote special hours entirely to the children. It is not the quantity of time, but the quality that counts Thirty minutes or an hour of concentrated attention to the child's needs and problems is often better than eight hours of a parent's physical presence accompanied by a lack of interest or attention. At 10 your son has reached an age when you can talk with him and ask him to express his feelings. This kind of honest discussion my tell you what you need to know.

Couple repeats vows in Claremont church

Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church in Claremont was the setting for the marriage of Miss Christina Flores and Michael K. McLane.

Officiant for the afternoon, double-ring rites was the Rev. James O'Grady.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Flores of Upland was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a gown of chantilly lace over tafieta fashioned with a high scalloped neckline and long fitted sleeves. Tiers of lace formed the bouffant skirt.

Lace edged the bride's veil which fell from a tiara. The bride carried a nosegay of daisies, carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Carmen Flores was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Phillips Stevens and Ann Thomas with Tessie Flores as junior attendant.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith McLane of Upland, named Jaime Ayala as best man. Ushers were David Owen and Merle Amen.

The couple greeted guests during a reception of the Upland Woman's Clubhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. McLane will reside in Pomona after a honeymoon along the California coastline.

Urethane insulation keeps milk cold or cocoa hot for up to five hours. Bottles have leakproof stoppers and are stain and odor resistant.

Opened two doors

That changed her life

By MARY REMILLARD
P-B Women's Editor

A diminutive blonde, who owns Diana's Nutrition Center in Glendora, has a belief, admittedly controversial, that the way to improve the eyesight is by way of vitamins, vital foods and visual training.

She has a theory about the eyes that doubtless does not endear her to ophthalmologists or optometrists, but Diana Deimel is a woman with a bubbling personality whose ideas about the visible ray therapy on eyes have gained her many disciples.

All of this is contained in her book "Vision Victory," available at local health food stores.

Diana has an aversion to people wearing glasses. She is quick to admit she is no expert on the eye, but she is sure she can help people rid themselves of the need for glasses.

"Nobody," she emphasizes, "has good eyes every day. They are never the same. They vary according to the condition of your health.

A native of Australia and a former actress, Mrs. Deimel got into her present field by opening two "wrong doors." The first time the actress and band leader opened a stage entrance door and found herself in the midst of a health lecture in the same building. She stayed to listen and shortly thereafter made plans to tour Australia with the health group and to study nutrition.

She entered the second "wrong door" when she stopped in Phoenix, Ariz., years later and stumbled upon a blind French poodle. That was the beginning of her research on vision.

Most people can triumph over poor eyesight, she believes, and those who need help to see can get it from revolutionary non-prescription spectacles that are simply dark lenses with dozens of pin-size holes in them.

DIANA DEIMEL

She produced a pair of the glasses and a number of people tried them out during her visit to the newspaper office. All were surprised to find they could see clearly through the pinholes.

Mrs. Deimel says the spectacles will correct any sort of astigmatism and some other eye deficiencies.

"You see," she says, "they were first introduced to the public by an ophthalmologist, James E. Lebensohn, M.D., and Ph.D.

The Food and Drug Administration watches her very closely, she readily admits. Dr. Lebensohn wrote an essay on the glasses, and many reprints were made. The FDA did suppress the reprints but does allow the sale of the glasses.

Diana Deimel has 10 daily tips for eye care and they include: Before rising, stretch, then squeeze eyes shut; open and blink several times; make your breakfast consist of raw fruit and a glass of milk; let all the light you can into your house; when reading, blink at every page and look away into the distance; keep 12 feet away from your television set, and have faith in yourself.

Until her techniques for vision improvement are perfected, Mrs. Deimel suggests trying to go without glasses in the home but wearing them outside the home for safety reasons.

"Controversial I may be," she says, "but if I'm being talked about I know I'm getting my message across, and I've had over 300 television, radio and press interviews so far this year. I'm spreading my story."

Extension course set for nurses

Nurses will be provided with knowledge and skills in the practical application of administering drugs at a new UCLA Extension course titled "Relevant Pharmacology for Licensed Nursing Personnel," to be offered Fridays, Sept. 21 to Oct. 19, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Center for the Health Sciences at UCLA.

Anatomic and physiologic principles will be discussed as they relate to medications. Topics to be covered include individual assessment of educational deficits and concerns, basic mathematics, conceptual reference points and ration-proportion, drug classification and drug action groups.

Information may be obtained by writing P.O. Box 24902, Department of Continuing Education in Health Sciences, UCLA, Los Angeles, 90024.

Mishandling of food can ruin family picnic

Carelessness in handling food may turn a family picnic into "no picnic" at all.

According to the U.S. Public Health Service hundreds of persons have become ill from mishandling of food and lack of proper refrigeration.

But, foodborne illness can be avoided and picnics can be better than ever when a few precautions are taken, and new methods tried:

For the next family outing, instead of making up sandwiches at home, consider taking the ingredients with you in a portable ice box.

Sandwich-making or steak-broiling can be fun when they are done as a group activity. Many picnic areas have grills conveniently located.

Disease-producing bacteria prefer certain types of food. Should you decide to have on your picnic menu such foods as milk, eggs, meat, poultry, cream pies, custards or potato salad, be sure there are adequate facilities for keeping them at the proper temperature.

All potentially hazardous food must be kept either hot or cold as needed, until the picnic meal is served.

Throw out leftover food that cannot be refrigerated properly. Do not leave any food uncovered out in the sun.

Cover the serving area with a tablecloth. There are very attractive ones made of permanent press materials and of plastic.

Some people also pack cloth napkins, and a bottle of wine and carefully-wrapped glasses for the adults. (It is wise to keep wine service to one glass for each.)

Picnics for many people have become more festive and better than ever before. With a little care, they can become safer, too.

New hanger introduced

A manufacturer says he's tackled the rolling waistband and wrinkled cuff. The Los Angeles company has introduced a combination hanger with a spring-loaded spreader for trousers and skirts. One hand squeezes while the other positions the garment. The jacket hanger portion is constructed of quality hardwood with a stainless steel cross bar. The skirt and pants spreader detaches.

Key collecting

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: A friend has a most interesting collection of keys dating back to the Crusades. While serving with the military in Turkey, he was able to buy ancient keys by the pound. I am intensely interested in researching these keys with him. Is there any literature to which I might turn? Key collecting is new among antiquers, and as yet I have not come across any kind of catalogue. Are there any institutes in this country where I might inquire specifically about these very old keys? — S. M., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

I spoke to Miss Claire Vincent, associate curator of Western European arts at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in NewYork where there is a collection of locks and keys.

Miss Vincent tells me there is very little published on locks and keys, but cites Vincent Era's "Locks and Keys Throughout the Ages." This is a translation from the Dutch, published by Lits' Safe & Lock Mfg. Co. in the Netherlands. A fairly new book, in French, is "L'Histoire de la Clef" by Charles Curil-Boyer (edition Vilo, Paris). And there is "Locks and Keys" by Louis Zara (Walker Publishing, $4.50). A bookstore could order this last one for you (or write Walker Publishing Co., 720 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022).

You will find photographs and drawings of locks and keys in books on ironworks (this is the best place to look). The 42nd Street Public Library in New York has a bibliography of such books, and you may certainly find them in your main library in Cedar Rapids. Secondhand bookstores might turn up something on this, and you should watch carefully such publications as Antiques and The Collector for special articles. I haven't seen any catalogue on the subject, but perhaps someone among my readers will help us both in the matter.

Collector's Weekly ran two interesting articles on the history of ancient locks in its issues of January 2 and January 9, 1973. (Back issues may be available at 35 cents apiece by writing to Collector's Weekly, Kermit, Texas 79745, asking for Vo. 4 No. 172 and Vol. 4 No. 173.) The first of the two articles by William Rodger deals with ancient European locks, ths second discusses American locks and their availability.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I used my well and tree platter to serve a hot meatloaf and cannot get out the stain it created. Can you help me?—Mrs. M.O., St. Louis, Mo."

I called a silversmith for you. He says that meat always stains silver, but that any top-quality silver polish ought to get it out. The important thing is not to leave stains on silver long. You should have washed your platter immediately after using it.

If a good quality silver polish (such as Gorham) doesn't get the stain out, the expert suggests that you take it to a silversmith to have the stain chemically removed. Never use a strong abrasive on it, either a powder or a scouring pad.

(Amy Vanderbilt welcomes your letters and strives to answer all those of general interest in her column. Send your questions and comments to Miss Vanderbilt in care of Progress-Bulletin).

TV antenna branded as hazardous

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A new government safety commission has branded "imminently hazardous" the "Little Wonder TV Antenna" and has started steps to remove the product from the market.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission said Tuesday users of the antenna should unplug or disconnect them immediately because they pose the danger of electrocution.

Commission Chairman Richard O. Simpson said he had asked the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to investigate alleged "misleading and possibly fradulent advertising" of the product by its national distributors, Windsor House of Island Park, N.Y., and Sunset House of Los Angeles, both mail order firms.

The antenna is manufactured by A. K. Electric Corp. of Brooklyn and connects directly to home electrical outlets. But Simpson said the antenna contains no safety device to prevent shock or possible electrocution.

The commission was established by Congress in October, 1972, and is impowered to set up mandatory safety standards for consumer products.

'Bolt' renamed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Universal Pictures has retitled "Thunderbolt," starring ex-football star Fred Williamson, to "That Man Bolt."

Major oil companies said responsible for shortages

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —The major oil companies have conspired to bring about the present "phony gas shortage" in order to raise gasoline prices and drive smaller producers out of business, according to State Sen. Mervyn Dymally.

"The oil companies are not suffering at all in this period of alleged hardship," the Los Angeles Democrat said Tuesday. "In fact, they never had it so good. They have the attitude that the consumer be damned."

Calling the shortage "a conspiracy by some of the largest corporations in this country," Dymally said the oil industry was using the issue "as the major weapon in its battle to increase prices, drive independents out of business and secure approval for the trans-Alaksa pipelint."

In remarks to a Town Hall gathering and a later news conference, Dymally, now the chairman of the Senate Democratic caucus, also announced his intention to run for lieutenant governor

"I would like to announce that, after the next election, I expect to occupy the lieutenant governor's seat on the state lands commission. I am willing to announce now that I will not put myself in a conflict of interest situation by accepting any contributions at all from the oil companies."

The senator called on state Attorney General Eevelle Younger to "assume the authority to investigate the gasoline shortage in California" because the federal government "just isn't interested."

He proposed that the companies be placed under regulation by the state Public Utilities Commission and that a new agency—an Energy Resource Board—be established to police the industry in the future.

"I'm not trying to advocate the control of a private sector," he said. "I believe strongly in free enterprise. But the oil industry leaves us no viable alternative."

"The nation has the crude oil," he said. "The oil companies just have not refined that oil."

To back up his statement that the oil companies are profiting from the shortage, Dymally said Standard Oil of California, the state's leading producer, reported profits up 24 per cent for the first quarter of 1973. Shell Oil Co. was up 49 per cent, according to Dymally, and Atlantic Richfield Co. profits rose 52 per cent.

Prehistoric Indian village uncovered

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI) —The remnants of a prehistoric Indian village have been uncovered by a road building crew at Albany's Marine Corps Supply Center, officials said Tuesday.

An Indian historian, Dan Kirkley of Camilla, said artifacts found at the site may date back 15,000 years.

Boy Scouts found some arrowheads at the site about four mosths ago, but it wasn't until bulldozer began digging a three-foot deep, 25-foot wide path through the base that the size of the find was realized.

Kirkley is a member of the Kolomulki Society, which collects and reports on Indian artifacts in Georgia. He said many arrowheads, hatchets, agricultural tools and flint shavings have been uncovered by the construction work.

Though the digging started about three weeks ago, no one noticed the wealth of buried treasure until the Boy Scouts returned this weekend to the camp ground.

The public relations officer at the Marine base said he has notified archaeologists at the University of Georgia of the find.

Bradley urges mayors to back rapid transit

LOSANGELES (UPI) —Los Angeles Mayor Thomas Bradley has urged his fellow Southern California mayors to work together to solve the area's transportation problems and to help construct a proposed $6.6 billion rapid transit system.

Bradley and Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., were cohosts of a breakfast meeting which attracted 55 of the county's 77 mayors Tuesday.

Bradley said he hoped Southern California's attempts to finally get to work on a mass transit system "will not be destroyed by bickering or parochialism."

Cranston cautioned the mayors there is no guarantee that $4.4 billion in federal funds needed to construct the proposed system will be immediately forthcoming.

"In the long run, we'll get that much," Cranston told the gathering. "But how long it will take I don't know."

Bradley said he wanted to reassure the mayors that Los Angeles is anxious to work with other communities on all county problems.

"The attitude that Los Angeles is above other cities in the county is at an end," he said. "Our problems do not separate us. We'll expect the good neighbor policy to go both ways."

Cranston said he supported the Southern California Rapid Transit District's $6.6 billion transit plan, but added that it "is only a beginning."

A thousand questions must be answered before the concept can become a plan," he said.

He said more federal funds must be made available to make the plan possible. California at present is eligible to receive up to 12 ½ per cent of available federal transportation funds. With this limit, he said, the only way to put the transit plan into effect would be to "expand the pot."

The senator also said the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's plan to enforce gas rationing in Southern California is unrealistic.

"But I must warn you," he added, "The Congress will be taking a long, hard look at all proposals to soften the Clean Air Act of 1970."

One gf the mayors at the gathering, Byron Cook of Burbank, a member of the SCRTD board of directors, said the district was ready to provide any type of transportation system the area wants.

He cautioned, however, against factionalism among the cities and any moves that would "destroy the SCRTD."

PSA given rate boost

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Public Utilities Commission Tuesday approved fare bikes averaging 4.9 per cent for Pacific Southwest Airlines.

The decision means that the San Diego-based carrier will increase its fares between here and Los Angeles by 92 cents on Sept. 5. The present one-way fare is $16.87.

The PUC said PSA would be able to earn a rate of return of 12.1 per cent and a return on common stock of 15.6 per cent. Annual revenues will grow to $4.6 million, officials said.

In granting the increase, the commission said it considered such factors as increased competition, the effect of hijacking and the security measures imposed as a result and potential growth in new Fresno and Stockton routes.

PSA last adjusted its fares in December 1970.

Fares between San Diego and San Francisco will go up 93 cents, Burbank and San Francisco 92 cents, Ontario and San Francisco 87 cents and Long Beach and San Francisco $1.12.

Fares between San Francisco and Sacramento, Fresno and Stockton will not be affected by the increase.

TV profits on the rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Last year saw television broadcasting revenues climb to $3.18 billion, up 15.6 per cent over 1971, a Federal Communications Commission (FCC) report showed today.

The FCC said 1972's pre-tax profits of $552 million exceeded 1971 profits by 41.9 per cent, but it pointed out industry expenses were up 11.3 per cent, in part due to costs of coverage of the 1972 national political campaigns and inflation.

The report said advertising expenditures for television broadcasting went up 14.3 per cent last year.

Profits of the three national television networks, NBC, CBS and ABC, more than doubled to $111 million, or an increase of 106.5 per cent, the FCC said.

Bus surprises bar customers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "People stopped drinking for six seconds at least," bartender Hal Thunes said after a municipal bus burst into the famed Vesuvio Cafe in North Beach.

Moments before the recent incident, driver James Dawson had let his passengers out of the bus, noting that his airbrakes weren't working.

"It jumped the curb," said Dawson and then rammed through a plate glass window lettered "Booths for Topless Lady Psychiatrists."

No one was hurt.
